Italy Orders Schools Closed, Speeds War Plans

Council Passes Law Requiring Check of Aliens

Governor Orders Fingerprinting of All Persons Not Citizens.

Georgia's war on fifth columnists was intensified yesterday with these developments:

1. Governor Rivers issued a proclamation ordering all aliens in Georgia to register and be fingerprinted immediately at the nearest police, sheriff's or state patrol office.

2. Atlanta's city council unanimously passed an ordinance requiring registration and fingerprinting of aliens within 30 days after Mayor Hartsfield signs the measure this morning. Atlanta is the first city in the nation to take this step.

Law Is Compiled.

3. Attorney General Ellis Arnall said he had compiled Georgia's laws on treason and insurrection and would submit them to Governor Rivers today in a letter. He refused to say whether he regarded the laws as strong or weak.

Governor Rivers ordered that aliens refusing to comply with his proclamation should be reported to the executive department and added that any person suspected of un-American or subversive activities, whether alien or not, must be fingerprinted or be reported to the executive department.

Seek Federal Law.

He requested that city police, county sheriffs and other peace officers in Georgia co-operate with the state patrol in the drive to identify the state patrol's bureau of identification set up a special section to carry out the provisions of the executive order.

Councilman John A. White, who introduced Atlanta's new ordinance, said the congressional and senatorial delegation from Georgia will be urged to take immediate steps to bolster the city's efforts through enactment of a federal law "requiring substantially the same thing."

In Be Questioned.
Not only will aliens in Atlanta have to register and be fingerprinted within the 30-day period but also will have to explain why and how long they have been in the city and questions on whether or not they propose to be naturalized.

Those who come into Atlanta after the 30-day period must register and meet provisions of the ordinance within 24 hours after arrival. Violation of the ordinance will be punishable by fines not exceeding $200 or imprisonment not exceeding 60 days, either or both, at the discretion of the recorder.

Permit to Leave.

In order to leave the city, one who has filled out an alien registration blank must have the written permission of the chief of police.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall cited Georgia laws against treason, insurrection and attempts to incite insurrection, but said he had not completed his investigation of the statutes. A law forbidding the circulation of insurrectionary papers has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, he said.

Jack Dempsey And His Third Wife Separate

Her Desire for Night Club Career Held Cause of Rift.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey and his third wife, the former Hannah Williams, one-time musical comedy star, have parted and the "cheerful little earful" may sing again on Broadway.

The announcement of the formal separation—normally a prelude to a divorce action—was made late in the day by Mrs. Dempsey's attorney, Moses Polakoff, with the remark: "I guess incompatibility would cover it."

(Rumors of a disagreement between the couple because of Mrs. Dempsey's desire to resume her career as a night club entertainer had been current for months, the United Press said.)

Nothing was said as to custody of the two children—Joan Hannah, 5, and Barbara Judith, 3.

In the seven years since her marriage to Dempsey in Elko, Nev., shortly after her divorce from Roger Wolfe Kahn, Mrs. Dempsey had made no public appearances save for a two-week period in a musical comedy and perhaps two or three microphone talks with her husband.

U. S.-Built Louvain Library Destroyed in Titanic Battle

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

WITH THE GERMAN ARMIES, May 20.—(AP)—American newspaper correspondents, guests of Adolf Hitler, today saw the ruins of Louvain library, which was erected on Herbert Hoover square by co-operation of numerous American universities.

The building had been gutted by fire. Its 700,000 volumes must be considered lost.

All floors had been swept by the blaze. No one seemed to be able to say by whom or how the blaze had been set.

From the basement wisps of smoke still rose.

Credit Offered By the RFC To Spur Defenses

Plane Industry Has Sufficient Capital, Workers, Says Morgenthau.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 20.—The RFC offered its credit facilities to industries which lack capital for expansion necessitated by the national defense program today, while from a conference of aircraft manufacturers came official word that for the present at least they needed no help.

Jesse Jones, the RFC chairman, issued a statement saying his agency was ready to co-operate with the banks in making secured loans for national defense purposes, by taking 75 per cent of such loans or underwriting 75 per cent, leaving the bank carrying 25 per cent of the advance.

After conferring with the nation's principal aircraft builders in a hurriedly summoned session, Secretary Morgenthau told reporters the industry had sufficient capital, and enough skilled workers to meet the present demands of the defense situation, without sacrificing labor standards.

Comes As Surprise.

The development came as a surprise to some officials, who had been discussing the possibility of RFC loans for the purpose of building additional plant capacity, or of having the government build new plants directly, retain ownership, and lease them to private builders. This possibility apparently remained in the long-range picture.

"The administration and the RFC hope to have the fullest co-operation from banks in meeting whatever credit demand there may be," Jones said in a formal statement.

Meanwhile a congress pushing the defense appropriations through at top speed heard from Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, the Republican house leader, an inquiry as to "how the administration intends to finance these new demands."

In reply, Representative Rayburn, of Texas, the Democratic leader, said that serious consideration was being given to the possibility of RFC loans for the purpose of building additional plant capacity, or of having the government build new plants directly, retain ownership, and lease them to private builders. This possibility apparently remained in the long-range picture.

Time for Duce To Join Conflict Believed Near

Soldiers Halt Crowd at British Consulate; Guards Doubled.

By The Associated Press.
ROME, May 20.—Italy swung her war preparations into a new high speed tonight as the feeling grew stronger in many Italian minds that her entry into the conflict merely was a matter of time and new demonstrations against Great Britain and France broke out.

The War Department ordered three days of air raid drill and blackouts in Rome province as well as at Terni, 45 miles northeast, where great arms and munitions factories are running full blast.

Nothing developed to indicate whether general mobilization was imminent but military experts said the closing of schools May 31, two weeks ahead of schedule, would make buildings available for temporary barracks if needed.

Attack Secret.

Premier Mussolini received a report from Marshal Pietro Badoglio on troops posted on the frontier. It followed a report last week on the Littorio line of fortifications in the north which Duce ordered further strengthened.

Whether an Italian move would come on the French frontier or on the eastern borders facing the Balkans was a secret likely to be learned only after such a move was made.

Air raid drills and blackouts were ordered to start tonight in Terni, Rome, Milan, Turin and Genoa, to continue for three days. Demonstrations against the British and French broke out afresh in Rome tonight.

Blocked by Soldiers.

A shouting group of youthful Italians was held off from the British consulate by helmeted soldiers who appeared suddenly to block their advance. Guards around the French and British embassies were redoubled.

After breaking through a cordon formed by carabinieri and several feather-hatted bersaglieri who came on the run, a crowd of about 1,000 persons swept into the Piazza Venezia waving Japanese and Italian flags.

The demonstrations soon took an anti-French turn as the crowd began to shout, "Down with France," and "Tunis!"

From the Piazza Venezia, where Premier Mussolini failed to appear in answer to shouts of "Duce, Duce," the crowd separated and headed for the British and French diplomatic establishments, seizing flags from buildings as they went.

War Word Awaited.
Foreign Minister Count Ciano's speech in Milan yesterday left Italians expecting Mussolini to rally them suddenly some day to hear their army was on the move—just as he did when he launched the conquest of Ethiopia.

Count Ciano said Italy awaits only the "order of the day" from Duce "when he will have decided upon it."

Meanwhile, many Americans made their plans to leave Italy. A large number of priests and nuns reserved passage on the liner Rex which will sail from Genoa May 29. American authorities estimated there are only about 550 United States citizens in Italy who likely would request to be taken out, with some 1,500 more Italian-Americans probably choosing to remain.

One Peaceful Sign.

There were some possibly peaceful signs in Rome to offset the tone of war expectancy in the press. One was a report in diplomatic circles that the British and Italians have virtually settled their trade problems. The British were said to have agreed that Italy could import surplus raw materials for an emergency supply. They previously had insisted that imports must be held to peacetime levels so there would be less chance for the surplus reaching Germany.

HOW BLITZKRIEG STARTS—Adolf Hitler inspects a map as his generals prepare a plan of battle. With Hitler is General Gerd von Rundstedt, right, who was military governor of German-occupied Poland. Airplane Goal Grains Surge Of 50,000 Held Upward as U. S. In U. S. Reach Sets Minimum

Georgia Tech Expert Says 'Moral' Factors Create Chief Problem

By WILLARD COPE.

Fifty thousand airplanes a year—can America do it?

The material and technical answer is "yes," but the moral answer is "maybe." It depends on how mad the country gets, how much steam generated by the necessity for the program can be applied, and how quickly.

This is the summary of the situation given The Constitution by Professor Montgomery Knight, director of the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at Georgia Tech, in an interview which put together a comprehensive picture of the nation's position in the air, actual and potential.

So much information was supplied by Professor Knight that it has been found necessary to divide the resulting vitally interesting presentation into two parts, of which this is the first. He termed most of his figures and estimates "guesses," but it was clear that these guesses arose from solid fact, and from long and careful analysis.

By far the most encouraging prediction was that—with the government and the people fully aroused and determined to see it through—the United States can be producing airplanes within 12 to 18 months at the rate of 50,000 a year.

Co-operation Needed.

This presupposes full co-operation between the government and the manufacturers. Capital must be forthcoming from the public treasury, in the form of liberal loans, to create additional factories without needless delay. There must not be too narrow an insistence upon specifications, or similar strangulation of the program. A helpful attitude must be maintained all along the line.

Granted this promise, the prospect is excellent. We are a self-contained nation with adequate

1,000,000 'Trapped' By Shift in Tactics, Says Berlin Report

Advance on Paris Stalled After Heavy Losses by Germans, French Declare; 'Backs-to-the-Sea' Battle Impends.

By The Associated Press.

The capture of Laon, for centuries a strategic position 75 miles northeast of Paris, was claimed last night by the German high command.

Even there, the German announcement said, Nazi storm troopers did not stop, but continued on six miles beyond Laon in a southwesterly direction to the Oise-Aisne canal.

At the end of 11 days of the German blitzkrieg through the Low Countries and into France, the high command said, the Nazi war flag was waving over the citadel of the city which von Kluck's army took in August, 1914, and which remained in German hands until October, 1918.

At the same time another German thrust veered to the north, heading toward the English Channel with the object of trapping Belgian and British units making a stand in that area.

The Nazi high command did not state definitely why its steel-helmeted spearheads had swerved from the road to Paris after a two-day drive southward toward the French capital, but Paris claimed it was because this advance had been stalled with heavy German losses.

(German military sources yesterday claimed to have received word that an operation had been completed in northern France which, if verified, would mean the surrounding, according to their estimate, of more than 1,000,000 allied troops—350,000 British, 350,000 French and 300,000 Belgians now retreating from Belgium, according to the United Press.)

(Although the guarded German claims did not say so, such an operation only could be that German units had reached the English Channel, possibly in the region of Abbeville, south of Boulogne. Otherwise the Allied forces would not be surrounded and would have an open avenue of escape into France.)

Louvain Library Razed.
War's destructiveness in Belgium was brought home sharply to United States citizens with the word that the great Louvain library, erected on Herbert Hoover square by contributions of many university students, had been destroyed by fire.

Newspaper correspondents touring the front as guests of Adolf Hitler saw the building in ruins, its 700,000 volumes considered lost.

The German high command said the shifting thrust to the west—away from the road to Paris—gained between 20 and 30 miles on a line north from St. Quentin, which was in German hands.

If successful, the new drive to St. Quentin falls.

The French acknowledged late yesterday a Nazi report that St. Quentin, 80 miles northeast of Paris, the scene of some of the bloodiest fighting in the World War, had fallen to the Germans in a furious see-saw battle.

Late last night the French acknowledged that the German drive still was strong north and west of St. Quentin, but declared that

Maxwell Field Made New Site To Train Pilots

Will Be One of Four Major Centers Under Program.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(P)—The army announced today it had selected Maxwell field, Ala., as the site of one of four new pilot training centers.

Major General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, disclosed the new training plan in testimony before the house military committee. He said Maxwell field was the only site so far selected.

Later today, another officer said it was expected the pilot training operations at the Alabama field would begin about September 1. The other three probably will get under way about November 1, February 1, 1941, and April 1, 1941.

An air corps spokesman said it would mean temporary abandonment of the existing tactical school at Maxwell field, effective June 30. This step was necessary, he said, to make officers and facilities available for the new training program.

He said the tactical school would be reinstated as soon as the "emergency" ended.

The officer said it probably would be necessary to construct some new temporary buildings, chiefly barracks, because of the increased number of trainees. He said no further expansion of the existing facilities was contemplated.

It had not been decided, he said, whether operating planes would be transferred elsewhere with the opening of the training program.

General Arnold told the committee the establishment of additional training centers did not mean a duplication of work now being done at San Antonio, Texas.

He said each of the four centers would have the same capacity as the present army air school, about 1,200 pilots annually.

He said it was planned, by training graduates of the army air school as instructors and by the acquisition of 2,200 new training planes, to be prepared by June, 1941, to turn out approximately 6,000 pilots a year.

Savannah Factory Sale Is Announced

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 20.—(P)—Purchase of the Savannah Wire Cloth mills by the Cyclone Fence Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, from Port Wentworth Corporation, was formally announced today jointly by C. F. Hood, president of Cyclone, and Robert M. Nelson, president of the Port Wentworth Corporation.

Previous announcement had been made that the negotiations were being closed for the purchase.

The Savannah Wire Cloth mills consist of a modern screen cloth manufacturing plant located just outside of Savannah in Port Wentworth.

Presbyterians Refuse Protest Against Taylor

Assembly Decides Time Improper for Stand on Vatican Envoy.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 20.—(P)—Requests from 15 presbyteries in the Presbyterian church (southern) of the United States that the general assembly protest President Roosevelt's appointment of Mayron C. Taylor as a representative to the Vatican were denied today with a declaration this is not a "proper time or occasion."

The assembly acted after receiving from its committee the resolution stating the time was improper for "exercise of its right of 'humble petition in cases extraordinary.'" The resolution reiterated, however, the church's belief in separation of the church and state by pointing to the principles enunciated in the confession of faith.

The assembly allotted the foreign missions committee $746,058, an increase of approximately $30,000 to allow participation in the church's plan for retirement of ministers. The home mission committee was allowed $303,639, the average amount received from gifts in the last two years.

Plans were made for increasing most budgets for the 1941-42 fiscal year by appeals for additional funds.

1 Hurt, 5 Arrested In Workers' Clash

Sponsors were Miss Elizabeth Waggoner, Miss Aputash Short, and Miss Beckey Cheney for the brigade, and Miss Bette Milam and Miss Lillie Wright for the Boys' High and Tech High regiments.

Mrs. Mary Kent Dies Here at 79

Mrs. Mary Louise Kent, 79, a resident of Atlanta for the past 33 years and an active member of the Kirkwood Baptist church, died yesterday at the residence of her daughters, Miss Alma Kent and Mrs. Vesta Rice, at 1645 Woodbine avenue, N. E.

Surviving are one brother, J. W. Embury, of Deport, Texas, and two other daughters, Mrs. J. P. Roquemore and Mrs. S. W. Hassler, both of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Kirkwood Baptist church. Dr. T. O. White will officiate, and burial will be in East View cemetery under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

Father and Son To Get Degrees

When the sheepskins are passed out at Mercer University June 3, an Atlanta father and son will be in the receiving line.

They are the Rev. Samuel Franklin Lowe, 49-year-old pastor of the Inman Park Baptist church, and his 21-year-old son, S. F. Lowe Jr., of 432 Candler street.

Young Lowe is a member of the graduating class and his sheepskin will bear the bachelor of arts inscription with cum laude honors. His father will receive an honorary doctor of divinity degree for leadership in Baptist church work.

Baker Holds Lead in Race For I. T. U. President

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—(P)—Claude M. Baker, of San Francisco, Independent candidate for re-election as president of the International Typographical Union, had a lead of 2,214 votes over the Progressive candidate, Francis G. Barrett, of New York, an unofficial tabulation of returns from 705 of 850 local unions showed today.

The count, made public at the office of Woodruff Randolph, secretary-treasurer, gave Baker 29,128 and Barrett 26,914. Randolph, a Progressive, also seeking re-election, had 28,094 votes to 27,728 for John J. Conley, of Fort Worth, Texas.

'Pancake' Type Court Upholds Airplane Motor Right of U. S. Is Developed To Fix Prices

New Engine Would Increase Warcraft Speed by 10 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(P)—A revolutionary type of aircraft engine—flat like a pancake—which will add some 10 per cent to the speed of warplanes, was announced today as the nation applied itself to the problem of air rearmament.

Long the goal of engineers, the 1,200 horsepower engine can be "submerged" entirely within an airplane's wings, thereby reducing wind resistance.

It also is expected to increase flying ranges by about 15 per cent. It was developed in co-operation with the army air corps by the Aviation Manufacturing Corporation.

Harry Woodhead, president of the concern, in making the information public, said it was only 37 inches high and 44 inches wide. Conventional engines of the radial or inline types present a considerably larger frontal area and, due to their size, could be installed inside a wing only on planes of enormous size.

The "flat" engine, produced by the company's Lycoming division, can be used in 4-engine bombers. Its 12 cylinders are chemically cooled.

In engineering language, it has "opposed-type" cylinders. That is to say, if the cylinders of an ordinary automobile "V" type engine were laid flat so that they would thrust against each other instead of at a 90-degree angle, they would resemble the new power plant.

Wanted: A Mother For Seven Puppies

Lady, the setter, is dying. And the seven pups that remain of the litter of 10 that came yesterday may die, too, unless J. K. Barrett, 217 Howard street, N. E., Lady's owner, can find a nursing mother for them.

He called The Constitution yesterday and told the story. Lady's in the hospital, and there seems to be no chance for her to live. Three of her puppies died. But the seven others are strong and healthy, and he wants more than anything to save them.

He could feed them by bottle, of course. But feeding seven puppies five or six times a day is a task. And Mr. Barrett has a job to look after.

Congressman Urges Sending All Needed Supplies to Allies.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(P)—Warning the country that Germany would take over the French and English navies and merchant marines if she won the war, Chairman May, Democrat, Kentucky, of the house military committee suggested tonight that the United States send "all needed supplies and equipment" to the Allies.

"The battle front is in France now," he said in an address prepared for delivery on the Washington Star radio forum and an N. B. C. network. "Why not send to those fighting for freedom all needed supplies and equipment to keep it there so that we shall not be compelled to send our men to the battle front there?"

May, who had proposed previously that the neutrality act be modified and the Johnson act repealed to permit credits to the Allied powers, declared that if Germany won she would undertake "a relentless commercial conquest of our European markets." This, he said, would be accompanied by "enticing allurements to our American neighbors."

Shortly after the blaze was put out, city police arrested a former Negro janitor of the church on a charge of suspicion of arson.

The Negro, who was listed as Charles A. Smith, 29, of an Evans street address, was seen near the church shortly before the fire broke out, Patrolmen E. G. Conner and W. E. Petty reported. A five-gallon can which had contained inflammable fluid was found near the church, they said.

The Rev. W. T. Hunnicutt, pastor of the church, said plans for a new church building have been under consideration for several weeks. Because of the fire, a revival, which began Sunday night, has been canceled, the Rev. Mr. Hunnicutt said.

HOW YOUR NEWSPAPER IS MADE
Step inside a modern newspaper plant—see how news is gathered, written, edited, how it is put into type, stereotyped, printed, how your newspaper is delivered to you as a finished product. You can do that actually if you can spare the time for a visit of inspection—and you can do it in your library chair at home if you send the coupon below for a copy of the fascinating booklet, "How a Newspaper is Made." If you have not been familiar with all the processes that go into the making of a modern newspaper, this booklet will tell you the whole story.

Water Project Contracts Let, Total $332,507

Council Awards Work for Increase in Filtration Capacity.

City council yesterday awarded contracts totaling $332,507.56 for increasing the filtration capacity of the Atlanta waterworks system 43,000,000 gallons a day.

Present filtration capacity is about 39,000,000 gallons every 24 hours, but will be increased to $2,000,000 when the six contracts in connection with the improvement are completed.

Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, chairman of council's water committee, said the increase would care for Atlanta's needs for the next 20 years and are needed badly. He explained that drought seasons in Atlanta present problems, but that the completed project would prevent possible future emergencies in water supply.

Smith-Pew Construction Company, Atlanta, was awarded the major contract calling for expenditure of $159,800. Others were as follows:

Roberts Filter Manufacturing Company, Darby, Pa., $128,561.40; Builders' Iron Foundry, Providence, R. I., for venturi meters, $16,404; Cleveland Electric Company, Atlanta, $7,874; Buckhead Plumbing & Heating Company, Atlanta, $9,870; E. H. Sheldon Company, Muskegon, Mich., for laboratory equipment, $9,998.16.

Chosewood, who spoke for the water and purchasing committees in filing the recommendations, said the awards were made to the lowest bidders.

Americas' Joint Control of Air Ports Proposed

Development of New Bases Suggested in Answer to Lindbergh.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP)—Development of new air bases in the western hemisphere, under the common sovereignty of all American republics, was suggested by some officials tonight as a partial answer to last night's speech by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh demanded an adequate air defense of the hemisphere through the co-operation of the other nations of the New World.

Some officials felt that common sovereignty over the new bases, which would be situated at strategic points, would be preferable to the acquisition or lease of further bases by the United States itself, which might arouse charges of "Yankee imperialism" in Latin America.

Reaction Is Varied. The speech, in which Lindbergh warned against United States "meddling" abroad and discounted any danger of a foreign invasion if the country kept out of Europe's "internal affairs," aroused a varied reaction today.

Some Republicans in congress emphatically supported his views, while Secretary Hull said he was willing that anyone pass upon the question whether events have justified the past views and proposals of the administration.

Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, the assistant minority leader, and Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, approved the aviator's appeal for "a definite policy of defense" and an end to "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion." Senator Lundeen, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, said Lindbergh had been "absolutely right."

Called Unfortunate. Mrs. Roosevelt said she thought it "unfortunate" that the flyer had spoken of "powerful elements" which he said were endeavoring to carry the United States into the war, while Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, speaking at Charlotte, N. C., said that Lindbergh is "one of the best informed men in the country on aviation, but he is mistaken when he says there is no reason to fear aerial invasion of the United States."

Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, house majority leader, told the house that the Lindbergh speech recalled to him "the old phrase, 'Every workman to his own bench.'"

Other Comment. Comment on the address included: "I am glad to hear a voice like Lindbergh's raised in the cause of sanity at this wild moment—a moment engineered by the President."

Austin: "It is wise to caution people against losing their heads in this time of stress and anxiety."

Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana: "It is very good to avoid unnecessary hysteria, but I think the speech was highly conservative in tone. Apparently he does not favor speeding up our defense preparations as rapidly as we should."

Court Dismisses $50,000 Lawsuit. The Georgia court of appeals yesterday dismissed a $50,000 damage suit brought by H. W. Hutchins against the city of Atlanta.

Hutchins claimed he was injured August 14, 1926, while employed in the construction of a sewer main along Techwood drive, a project sponsored jointly by Atlanta and the WPA. He alleged he was working in a trench 16 feet deep when a wall caved in, burying him under six feet of dirt for 30 minutes.

The workman charged negligence on the part of the city. Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, previously had dismissed the petition, and the court of appeals affirmed this ruling.

EAT IN STYLE—Lunch time at the capitol was a bit different yesterday. When the clock rounded 12 o'clock, pretty state employees dabbed on their rouge and lipstick and marched down to the basement floor and into the new, modern restaurant which was open for the first time. Previously they had retreated at noon to some vacant corner to munch cold sandwiches and a glass of milk. Enjoying the new facilities here are, left to right, Louise Baldwin, Adelia Eubank, Mildred Shumate, and Eleanor Robinson.

R.O.T.C. at Russell Wins High Rating

Russell High school won the highest mark in military excellence of the schools of the Atlanta area whose R. O. T. C. units were awarded an "honor rating" by the War Department recently.

K. Meredith, head of the R. O. T. C. junior division in Fulton county, announced yesterday.

Other schools to achieve the rating, the highest awarded the school military units, were North Fulton, West Fulton, Fulton, Boys' High, Tech High and Decatur Boys' High schools.

Major Meredith said the West Fulton unit won the award in its first full year of military work, an unusual achievement.

Poetry-Writing Mountaineer Visits Atlanta

Son of Farmer Buys Land With Money From His Talents.

By HAROLD MARTIN. Jesse Stuart is a mountain man with the strength of the mountain rocks in his shoulders and the boom of mountain waterfalls in his voice.

He writes poetry. Some say it is the best poetry being written in this country today because it comes out of the heart of the man himself, and through him out of the hearts of generations of men and women as strong as the poplars off their native hills and as free as the winds that blow over them.

He's 32 years old and he looks like the star halibut at some A. & M. college somewhere. He slicks his hair down to have his picture taken but it dries out and springs back up again in a short stubble that he smooths down with the hand that does not hold his pipe which he takes out of his pocket when he talks.

Son of Farmer. He's the son of a farmer in the Kentucky hills—a man who worked somebody else's land all his life. But he works his own land now for when the big magazines first began to hear this voice out of the Kentucky hills the money started coming in and Jesse Stuart bought the land his daddy had worked and they all live there now—Jesse and his Daddy and the new wife that Jesse brought home just seven months ago, a mountain girl herself, slender and tall and graceful as a sapling.

He writes books, too, and his prose is poetry, because it is of and about people whose language and whose motions are as musical as the melody of winds and running streams.

He writes of rough folk who chew tobacco and wear overalls, but there's no streak of Tobacco Road in them. In fact that's what Jesse Stuart's main aim in life is right now—to prove to the outside world that in the south there are folks as fine and strong and clean as the earth they live on, even if they don't know the music of Beethoven or the painting of Picasso.

His Soul's Fiddle. Offhand, you think of poets as people who go about announcing their soul is a stringed lute on which the wins can play. Not Jesse Stuart. His soul is a mountain fiddle, playing tunes about the sun on the hills in the cool of the morning, the ring of the ax in the heart of the hickory tree, the music of the hound dog on the trail of the rabbit.

He was in town yesterday. He left last night, in a hurry to get back in the hills where the winds are sweet with flower smells and the places people walk are cool earth instead of hot concrete. He may stop off awhile at Vanderbilt, where he worked one year on a master's degree he never got, or at Peabody College, where he took his A. B., but he's in a hurry to get back to the steep slopes of Greenup county. That's where he gets his strength.

Defense Plan Handicaps

With the nation's security at stake, as stated by President Roosevelt last week and concurred in by almost unanimous public opinion, it should be axiomatic that the sole objective of every American, from the highest to the lowest, is to speed the country's defense to the utmost.

There are, however, a number of stumbling blocks in the path of any plans to reorganize industrial production of the necessities for war, not the least of which is the lack of a centralized authority, with the power to co-ordinate all branches of defense preparation, in which the public and business alike would have fullest confidence.

It is only recognizing a simple fact to admit that many of the men closest to the administration during the years of social reforms do not command any confidence in the ranks of industrial management and capital. The stress upon reform which has marked the greater part of governmental effort in recent years has achieved many worthy accomplishments, but at a time of crisis such as this the only reform in which the country is interested and the only reform which should receive immediate attention, is reform in our methods of defense and creation of strong army, navy and air force.

There are a number of laws now in force which are severe handicaps to any program of emergency arms production. There are the profit limits imposed by the Vinson-Trammell act. These are well enough in normal times, but act as a barrier to rapid expansion of plant capacity when emergency comes.

The anti-trust laws act to slow down that co-ordination of industry which is necessary if arms equipment is to be turned out in quantity at speed. The law now prohibits awarding of contracts by the government except by competitive bidding. This involves loss of months of time while low bidders are investigated as to their ability to fill the contracts. It should be possible to negotiate contracts for vital necessities of the defense program without this costly and unnecessary delay.

Finally there are a number of limitations on hours and wages which, with a shortage of skilled labor already handicapping production, could easily prove disastrous as far as speed of plant output is concerned. Loyal labor should co-operate in arriving at satisfactory compromise on some of the more rigid of these restrictions.

The problem of changing the system of this country, in regard to self-armorment, is one which has innumerable ramifications and which reaches into many bypaths. It means a reorientation of our methods and our thoughts. It will involve sacrifice by all of us and calls for utmost patriotism. It demands a devotion to the country and its ideals parallel with that displayed by past generations, by those who first formed the nation and those who upheld it during former dark hours of history.

One thing stands out with emphatic dominance over the national scene today. That is, everything else must be sacrificed to the one need. Until the nation is so armed for defense that no power, or possible combination of powers, in the world will dream of aggression, in any form, against us, every man, woman and child must be prepared to sacrifice for the greater good of all.

With the great influx of Latins into the national pastime, boxscore condensing becomes no simpler. Fancy saying "Third Baseman Lavto, I want you to meet First Baseman DT'sdro."

At Norwalk, to the bray of a jazz band and the cheers and groans of the gallery, a pro golfer does a round in par. The best of war-politicians could do no more.

A strange people, the Allies. They never act on these plans to invade the Ruhr, etc., which Hitler finds.

Lindbergh Speaks

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh spoke over a radio network on Sunday night. His general subject was the needs of the United States in the way of armed defense, with particular reference to aviation. His remarks, however, covered a wider range, including his opinions of the foreign policy of the government and the probable status of the United States after the war in Europe is over.

Colonel Lindbergh, like every citizen in a free country, has a right to express his opinions. Freedom of speech assures this, whether the speaker finds his audience around the soft drink refrigerator in the general store or, if he can afford it, over a nation-wide radio hookup. The same freedom permits listeners, in either case, to leave the store or tune out their radio receiver.

On just what grounds, however, Colonel Lindbergh bases his qualifications as general adviser to the nation, is somewhat obscure. He achieved a remarkable stunt when he flew, solo, across the Atlantic. Since then he has been the victim in a wretched tragedy of crime, in which he had the sympathy of everyone; he has expressed vigorous dislike for certain phases of American life and has lived abroad for a number of years. He has been feted by the Nazi leaders of Germany and given an honorary decoration, a medal, by them.

He was one of the first to warn the world that the Germans were building planes far faster than any other nation. This warning, though, was more a note of admiration for German efficiency than a forecast of the horror to use to which that productive efficiency has now been turned.

Colonel Lindbergh, in his radio address, appeared to be seeking to persuade his hearers this nation should send no planes, no supplies of any sort, to the Allies. He attacked the foreign policy of the administration, saying that any involvement of this nation in foreign war, which might come, would be the fault of our meddling in European affairs, not of European meddling in ours.

He stated flatly that a "small group" of would-be war profiteers and foreign interests is trying to bring this nation into the war and said we needed, for defense, a new national policy rather than increased armament.

The speech, while plausible on the surface, gave the impression Lindbergh is sure of German victory, that this country should not irritate these looming victors and that the Roosevelt policies have already placed the nation in a precarious position; nevertheless, it is unnecessary for us to worry, because we are still safe from attack behind the two oceans.

In other words, it was an expression of the same theories that produce isolationists in America, "appeasers" in Britain and neutral victims of blitzkrieg in Europe.

Colonel Lindbergh, speaking on his own specialty, aviation and the technicalities thereof, will always command a respectful hearing. But he should confine himself to that subject and not venture into the realms of national policy.

Should Be Stricken

There is a clause in the relief bill now before congress which should by all means be stricken from the measure before passage. That clause prohibits use of any of the money provided by the bill for implement of the nation's military arms. The same clause was in previous relief bills.

There is a growing feeling in the nation that any future large expenditures on relief should be, in so far as possible, expended on projects necessary to the national defense program. The upbuilding of defense, until the security of the country is unquestioned, is the one issue which today takes precedence over all others. There is no effort of the nation, or of individuals, which should not be devoted to this cause, if necessary.

There are innumerable building projects which will be required if President Roosevelt's armament requests are fulfilled. An army of a million men will need housing facilities, training camps and barracks. The WPA could, certainly, contribute largely to the doing of this job.

Then, if we are to have an air force of 50,000 planes, it will be necessary to build the plants for their construction, the hangars and airdromes for their housing and the quarters for the pilots, ground crews and other personnel needed.

Innumerable other tasks which must be done jump to mind. Tasks which the PWA, the WPA and other government organizations already existent could well accomplish. If we are to continue spending billions on relief, it is simple wisdom to use as much of that money as possible for defense also, thus killing two birds with one stone.

By every logical argument, the relief bill clause prohibiting use of the money for arms should be stricken. Its retention would be a tragic anomaly at this time.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

FIFTH COLUMNIST WASHINGTON, May 20.—Reading of Norway and Denmark, Holland and Belgium, hearing the strange tales of well-organized treachery, one wonders what manner of men they may be, these organizers of the "fifth column" who have put an ominous new phrase in our mouths. They are not pleasant fellows, if they can be judged by one of their number who used to be known to your correspondents.

HIS PATRON ROEHM He was large, blond south German, expensively dressed in English clothes, flourishing the easy manners of the perfect jay, and talking much, in those days, of how Nazism was really a mild form of political insurance against the Communist menace. In those days he was attached to the German embassy in an important capital. His wife was remarkably beautiful. He was not pleasant to look at himself, for an increasing grossness of the chin line made him resemble a more youthful Hermann Goering. But both were effusively agreeable, and they were much seen about.

His story was strange, and it seemed odd that when everyone knew it, so many people were glad to go to his house to drink his fine Rhine wines. He was the son of a poor, decent couple, his father a tobaccoist, or something of the sort, in a big south German city. In the years of chaos after the war, when he was growing up, he became fascinated by the just-beginning Nazi movement. His respectable father and mother, thinking the storm troopers street roughs, tried to hold him back. But he joined the Hitler youth, got himself a uniform, marched in parades, and felt fine about it.

When he was 16 or 17, his good fortune came. Being something of an athlete he took part in Nazi-organized games which were attended by no less a personage than the leader of all the storm troopers, Captain Roehm himself. He caught Roehm's eye, was made one of Roehm's personal aides-de-camp, and from this interesting and rather special beginning rose rapidly in the Nazi party. Soon he had a reputation as an extraordinarily brutal and efficient street fighter in working class districts. He was given little bigger honor, and became a member of the Fuehrer's body guard.

A little while before Hitler came to power, he saw and decided to marry the daughter of a powerful and rich German family. The family was one of those which had to watch the political currents. They did not much like it, but they accepted the alliance. His wife polished him up a bit, and he and she began to go out among the rich Berliners. Then Hitler became Reichschancellor, and it was necessary to bring the German diplomatic service into the Nazi line. The young couple, being considerably more presentable than most of the faithful, were sent to the embassy in the capital aforementioned.

GOSPEL-SPREADER The new job was simple, if somewhat ignoble. He had to spy upon and give party orders to the career diplomats whom the Fuehrer could not trust. Before long he had terrorized the ambassador, a kindly old fellow with a rubicund face and a plume of thin white hair, who made it quite clear to everyone that he was only sticking to his post until he could retire on a pension at a safe obscurity. He had also terrorized the head of the embassy staff. Just to show he was worth his salt, he caused the dismissal of an inoffensive little man, 25 years in the service without a penny saved, for being too poor a "representative of the Aryan race."

Fortunately our hero was at his new post when the Roehm blood-purge occurred. If not he would have lost his life, instead of escaping, as he did, with the loss of his dagger of honor. But after a few days of looking pale and shaken in the death of his first position, he began to work harder than ever at a new task of making friends with the right people. He did it well. Certain army officers thought him a fine type. A certain sort of rich man was enchanted by his talk about the Communist danger. He also explored the political underworld, making cronies of some of the more notable lobbyists and demagogues.

Then, about a year before the war began, he disappeared from the embassy for six months on a mission to the hinterland. He had often been away for short periods before, and when he returned used to boast, after a glass or two too many, how he had been spreading the Nazi gospel among German racial groups. He came back from his six months' mission with his dagger of honor restored, and a new post as consul of a large coastal city. There he rented one of the handsome houses he could find and started the process of making friends all over again. And there, so far as your correspondents know, he is still at work today.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

On Sunday Afternoon.

Seeking diversion for a pleasant Sunday afternoon, we decided to get in the car and go somewhere. Discussed various objectives for the trip during lunch and finally chose Indian Springs, chiefly because the distance was just about what our inclinations favored.

So, after rolling along the highway through Stockbridge and McDonough and Jackson, we turned right into the state park known as Indian Springs. Parked the bus and wandered around. To the casino, the museum, the swimming pool, etc. Watched boys and girls, fat women and slim women, wading over those cool rocks where the water flows, and then found an unoccupied bench and spent quite a while watching the folks go by.

All sorts and conditions of people and of costumes. Good-looking youngsters, lads and lassies, and a sprinkling of older and slightly more sedate people. All enjoying the warm sunshine and the relaxation and fun the place affords.

The was the little fellow with such small shoes. Barely as tall as his girl friend, he held himself rigidly erect and seemed to be assuming excess dignity to offset his lack of stature.

There were the three old men, sitting quietly in the shade, and discussing, as the world would have it, the sons and sons-in-law, jobs and the war and politics.

There were the girls in slacks. Why, asked one of us, are most of slacks-wearing females fat and pudgy? Probably, was the reply, because they have given up hope as to personal allure and decided to be comfortable, anyway.

The Blonde With Thin Legs.

There was the blonde all decked out in snappy sports costume but with the effect ruined by tooth, thin, and unevenly curved, legs. There was the nice and happy girl, with half her skirt soaking wet where it had not been held high enough at the wedding rocks.

There was the snappy number in sweater and shorts, who provoked a nudge from one masculine elbow into adjacent masculine ribs.

And there was the mysterious man with the stiff as a ramrod carriage and the very unusual attire. He's worth a paragraph to himself.

He was with a party. He was the only individual of all the Sunday afternoon crowd at the Springs who wasn't intelligently dressed for the time and place and condition of the weather. Everyone else wore lightweight and comfortable clothes. Slacks suits or rolled-down shirts. Bathing suits, shorts or loungeing things. And he had a regular business suit and one of those old-fashioned high collars, starched to metallic stiffness, that used to choke our fathers half to death. A collar that fitted tightly and held his chin up as inexcusably as the check rein on a horse.

A most solemn and serious looking individual, but pitifully uncomfortable.

These Are Our Folks.

And, as we watched all these people, coming and going, several hundreds of them, a feeling of great liking for them came. For these are our fellow Georgians, the decent and human and good folks who make up this state of ours. None of them appeared to belong to the idle rich categories. Just good, hard-working folks with jobs and duties in life, making sufficient for respectable living and not overly much more. Out in a pleasant place, for a Sunday's gentle vacationing.

Somehow, I got to thinking of the millions of other folks, of the same kind, he said to me, who are today, in the nations at war, haunted always by the fear that at any time, enemy bombers may roar out of the sky and drop wholesale death and agony upon them.

Thinking so, I began to speculate upon the impulse that keeps young men from insane fear of modern war. What is it that steels their souls so they face a terrible enemy of machines, unflinchingly, and bravely die in their tracks rather than give way?

Suddenly, I knew. For the thought came that it might be this Georgia, and this Georgia people who were doomed to die unless the enemy was hurled back from Georgia soil. And who among us, that calls himself man, would not gladly die to save folks like these from bombs and bullets and decimation?

And so, today, the young men of France and of England and of Belgium are dying to protect their own lands—their own Georgias—and to turn horror away from the humble homes of their own folks. It is a cause worth the dying, to save your homeland, your helplessly people and their humble ways of life, from ruin, agony and death.

Some Quotes From Wilson

WASHINGTON, May 20. Woodrow Wilson, in the course of his speaking campaign of September, 1919, on behalf of the League of Nations, seasoned his remarks with some paragraphs which today are of more interest than they were then. Mr. Wilson, of course, had a dreamy faith in the pledges of nations and the efficacy of scorn, and his exhortations all rang with a rather querulous anger at those skeptical men who did not share his confidence and would not commit the United States to the responsibilities which he would have had the nation assume. The wisdom or folly of his proposals can only be debated, never determined, but they were rejected by the people to whom he carried his case, who then, having made their decision, got plastered on jump-stiddy and kitchen gin and went lurching into the era of wonderful nonsense, with a hey-nonny-nonny.

On September 5, 1919, Mr. Wilson stopped at St. Louis and, in a speech at the Coliseum, said: "What did the Germans do when they got into Belgium? Every piece of machinery that could be taken away was taken away. If it was too big to take away, experts directed the way in which it should be injured so that it could never be used again, and this device were taken from the industries in Belgium which the Germans hated the Belgians for having. This war, in its inception, was a commercial and industrial war. It was not a political war."

"Very well, then, if we must stand apart and be the hostile rival of the rest of the world, we must be ready, physically, for anything that comes. We must have a great standing army. We must see to it that every man in America is trained to arms. We must see to it that there are munitions and guns enough for an army that means a mobilized nation. That they are not laid up in store but that they are kept up to date, ready for use tomorrow. That we are a nation in arms. Because you cannot be unfriendly to everybody without being ready that everybody shall be unfriendly to you. And what does that mean? Readiness for taxes? No. Not only the continuation of the present taxes but the increase of present taxes."

Much More Serious "And it means something very much more serious than that," he continued. "We can stand that so far as the expense is concerned, but, what is much more serious, we have to have the sort of organization which is the only kind of organization that can handle arms of that sort. We may say what we please of the German government that has been destroyed, but it was the only sort of government that could handle an armed nation. You cannot handle an armed nation by vote. You cannot handle an armed nation if it is democratic, because democracies do not go to war that way. You have got to have a concentrated, militaristic organization of government to run a nation of that sort. You have got to think of the president not as the chief counselor elected for a little while, but as the man meant constantly and every day to be the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, ready to order them to any part of the world where the threat of war is a menace to his own people. And you can not do that under free debate. You have the alternative, armed isolation or peaceful partnership."

In Des Moines, the next day, Mr. Wilson said:

Isolation At an End "The isolation of the United States is at an end, not because we choose to go into the politics of the world, but because by the sheer genius of our people and the growth of our power we have become a determining factor in the history of mankind."

And on September 12, at Couer D'Alene, Idaho, he said to the subjects of William E. Borah:

"You cannot trade with a world disordered, and if you do not trade you draw your own industries within a narrow and narrower limit. This great state, with its untold natural resources, with its great undeveloped resources, will have to stand for a long generation stagnant, because there are no distant markets calling for those things."

And, after 20 years, the next Democratic President in a war speech to congress speaks from the neck and not from the heart when he says: "There are some who say that democracy cannot cope with the new techniques of government developed in recent years by a few countries which deny the freedoms which we maintain are essential to our democratic way of life. That I reject."

In rejecting that proposition, Mr. Roosevelt, for once, disputes his old chief.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

POETS COME TO TOWN I am quite sure the best story teller in the town is Judge Arthur Powell. In a long and brilliant career at the bar he has collected stories of actual happenings which enrich any evening. His best ones cannot always be printed. They are not bad stories, but, since, they come from the people, they often have a Rabalaisian touch.

Judge Powell spends his winter vacation at Key West. There is a winter colony of writers and poets there and the judge finds their company agreeable. His stories have won such fame one may find them quoted in Boston or New York or Maine where the writers go to spread them when their vacations are done.

Last week Judge Powell was host to a small afternoon reception for Robert Frost, one of the nation's best beloved poets; and also one of the best of story tellers. His stories of New England will match the Georgia stories of Judge Powell. The two got along famously. Mr. Frost, New England's great poet, tells one story which illustrates the thrift of the New Englanders.

An unused tombstone sat beneath the stairs in this particular home. It had been there for years. On it was the name "Hezekiah Bedford." Mr. Frost finally learned its story. A son named Ezekiah had died and the stone was ordered. When delivered it was found the stone cutter had made an error and carved the name "Hezekiah."

The family kept the stone and when the next son was born named him "Hezekiah."

But Hezekiah grew up, went to sea and was lost at sea in a storm. All the children who came later were girls. The stone remained.

RIDING THE CIRCUIT Judge Powell is one of the few attorneys left who rode the circuit on horseback. The lawyers followed the judge from county seat to county seat.

A famous Georgia judge of those days was known as an imbibor of good bourbon whisky until his appointment to the bench. His wife prevailed upon him to give it up. Indeed, she insisted upon it.

The judge rode a bay mare of which he was inordinately proud. One evening the judge and the lawyers reached a county seat to find the small, frame hotel crowded. The judge and two of the lawyers had to sleep in a room with a shoe drummer.

During the night the groans of the drummer awakened the judge and the lawyers. A lamp was lit. The drummer was in agony, suffering, he said, from colic. Only a drink of whisky would cure it. "Well, sir," said the judge, "I have a small flask in my bag which I carry to drench my mare when she becomes upset in traveling about the circuit."

The judge found the flask, but the groaning man protested he did not like the taste of whisky and could drink it only from a glass with some sugar stirred in. The judge hesitated, but the drummer's groans won. The judge went to his bag and procured from it a small sack of sugar, a silver goblet and a spoon. The today was mixed, administered, and soon sleep was possible.

The next morning the judge arose early and went to the stable to see after the needs of his mare. The drummer was in the stable looking at the mare.

"Ah," said the judge, "I see you are admiring my mare."

"Well, sir," said the drummer, "I just had to see a mare that could be drenched only with a whisky toddy, made in a silver goblet and stirred with a spoon."

ANOTHER POET Yesterday there was a luncheon for Jesse Stuart, the Kentuckian, who attracted national attention with his poems and books.

Stuart came out of a Kentucky to Vanderbilt University and worked his way through two years. Donald Davidson, one of the poets and writers of the agrarian school, set off the spark which started Stuart on poetry. The sonnets in "The Man With the Bull-Tongue Plow" attracted nationwide attention.

Now has come a new novel, "Trees of Heaven," which promises to be a best seller.

The flavor of the Kentucky mountains is in his speech, and in his writing. No American writer is more rooted in the soil of his country than this 32-year-old Kentuckian.

His neighbors don't understand him. There were whispers in the mountains that some of his writing wasn't "proper," but he is living it down.

He wrote the novel and ran his farm, milking seven cows each day and feeding 22 hogs. He had a struggle with the lambs during the cold weather and that struggle may be read in the novel. He put it all into the story "which runs for one year—from August to August."

I wish Frost and Stuart and Judge Powell could have been together at one and the same time. I'd like to have been present and listen to the stories they know and can tell.

Stuart is an original among American writers. He and the late Thomas Wolfe were about the only two originals of this decade. Stuart may become one of our really great novelists. He already is well on the way.

When Lazarus Starved at the Gate, the Rich Man Didn't Know He Was There

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A famous preacher of another generation once quoted the poetical lines of David: "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

Then he added grimly: "Perhaps David never saw it, but I have." We have been told, again and again, that nobody in our time will be permitted to starve; but the bitter truth is that people are starving, in the midst of abundance, and it seems to be nobody's job to feed them.

They come to my house begging for help, and no doubt they come to yours—not professional beggars, but people who worked while they could and then endured want in silence until hunger forced them to beg, or steal.

There are helpless old people, without kin, who get $5 a month from the state and $2 worth of blue food stamps each month from the federal government. With rent to pay and food to buy, $7 a month may provide enough food to keep life in the body, but it can't prevent hunger. In other states the poor are given more money, but the cost of living is correspondingly higher. In one, for example, a widow with four children receives $12 a week, but she must pay $8 a week for shelter. Does anybody believe the other $4 will provide enough food for five people?

One old man who came begging had worked on a WPA project for 18 months and then had lost both job and health. A slight stroke left one arm paralyzed. In due time he may be "recertified" and given a flag-waving job, but in the meanwhile he has a semi-invalid wife and a house full of children to feed and no income at all. Landlord and grocer gave him credit long after faith became charity. After working his way through governmental red tape, he was promised food stamps "in 10 or 15 days"—but his children couldn't live that long on hope alone. They were hungry and crying for food, so he begged.

There must be such people everywhere. What becomes of WPA workers who are laid off after 18 months? Are their children supposed to have enough fat on their ribs to keep them alive until the enforced vacation is over? Unless manna falls from heaven, these people must beg or starve.

There is hunger in America—make no mistake about it—and meanwhile our big-hearted people are feeding the destitute victims of tyranny in Spain, Finland, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

RETIRING HEAD OF SCHOOL CALLED "GREAT GEORGIAN"

Editor, Constitution: Atlanta papers carried the brief announcement that Mrs. M. E. Sikes, due to ill health, had resigned the position as superintendent of the Georgia Training School for Girls, a state institution located on Baker's Ferry road in Fulton county near Atlanta, which she had held for 20 years.

The Georgia Training School for Girls was established as a place where young white girls, under 16 years of age who had made early mistakes in life, could be sent by the judges of the juvenile courts and other state courts to be trained and educated for useful and better service. Strange as it may appear, it was never adequately supported by the state and it was largely due to the heroic work and fine appeal of Mrs. Sikes that the school was able to function and that provisions were made for expansion and improvements essential to the very successful work done there for the past 20 years.

The judges of Georgia and especially those who have become familiar with the Georgia Training School for Girls by visiting it from time to time, will join in tribute to Mrs. Sikes and I hope that, in her lifetime, a suitable building or monument will be erected on the spacious grounds of the institution as a memorial to her.

Measured by the great good she accomplished and by the success she achieved through sacrifices, work, prayers, and tears, Mrs. Sikes is a great Georgian.

ROOSEVELT WAR SHIP AS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Editor Constitution: I have read, with great interest, the address our President made to the joint session of congress, and I was proud to note the response he received from nearly all of the populace of this great country of ours. I realize, as well as others do, that the sentiment of the great majority of our people is behind our President's suggestion for rearmament, and that they are ready to back him to the very limit.

An idea struck me to make an appeal to the general public, not only in the state of Georgia, but throughout the nation, for a contribution of 50 cents from every man, woman and child, to use for the building of a dreadnaught that would be second to none in the world, and name this battleship "Franklin D. Roosevelt."

This would serve a double purpose, that of strengthening our navy, and as a vote of confidence to the greatest and most humanitarian President this country ever had.

Leaflets Urging Red Cross Aid Rained on City

Swooping Planes Drop Appeals for Europe's Stricken People.

Low-swooping airplanes from army fields roared at noon yesterday over Atlanta, dropping leaflets calling attention to the campaign to raise $100,000 as Atlanta's quota for American Red Cross relief work in Europe.

They roared so loudly over the Atlanta Red Cross headquarters at 86 1-2 Luckie street, simulating sounds of bombing planes in Europe, that Phil C. McDuffie, chairman of the drive, was forced to suspend his inspirational address to the meeting of campaign leaders.

Nobody jammed the stairway in a frenzied dive for a boomproof shelter. Nobody was frightened. These swooping planes held no terror for Americans.

"Let us be glad we are not over there," said Mr. McDuffie, as the hum of the planes died away. "That might have been a bomber, leaving death and destruction in its wake. That's what they are doing in France and Belgium and Holland."

Need Explained.

The text on the 200,000 leaflets read on one side: "An Appeal from the Heavens—American Red Cross must immediately raise $100,000 dollars for suffering humanity in England, France, Belgium and Holland. Atlanta's quota is $100,000. Atlanta will not fail."

On the reverse side was printed: "Let us answer these death-dealing bombs over war-stricken Europe with money to buy much-needed food, clothing and medical supplies. Do your part and contribute generously at once through the Atlanta chapter, American Red Cross, 86 1-2 Luckie street."

Dr. Frank Boland, head of the Emory hospital unit in France during the first World War and chairman of the recent Red Cross membership campaign, stressed the need of funds for war sufferers.

Chairman McDuffie called attention to the fact that the Red Cross has not undertaken a "drive" in Atlanta since the great floods, except for a quiet campaign for sufferers from the Albany tornado, to which generous response was made.

Oby Brewer's Work.

Oby T. Brewer, a leader in the recent membership drive, directed distribution of cards with names of "prospects," among responsible business firms, which might be expected to contribute generously, and upon which members of the newly formed committee will call to ask for substantial contributions.

Chairman McDuffie and his associates were optimistic over raising the $100,000 within a week or 10 days.

Checks for varying amounts were received at headquarters yesterday. There were a few large ones, and numerous promises from important corporations that substantial checks would be in the mail by Tuesday.

Sub Seadragon Heads For Pacific After Trials

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 20. (P)—The submarine Seadragon, commanded by Lieutenant Commander John J. Johns, left today for the Pacific coast after completing surface and undersea trials off the Isles of Shoals.

Preparations were completed for the launching tomorrow afternoon of the newest submarine, the Trout, a 300-foot vessel. She will be sponsored by the wife of Rear Admiral Walter B. Woodson, naval judge advocate.

Warplane Engine Built for Wings

NEW YORK, May 20.—(P)—Development of a 1,200-horsepower engine for installation inside warplane wings to increase speed about 10 per cent was announced today by Harry Woodhead, president of the Aviation Manufacturing Corporation.

The engine is the first of its kind ever made in this country, and is believed to be the first in the world of its type. The company said the power plant was under development for several years in co-operation with engineers of the army air corps.

Completely "submerged" in the wing, the engine which is liquid-cooled, delivers its power to the propeller through an extension of the crankshaft.

WPA Workers Open Week's Program Here

Hear Radio Addresses by Mrs. Roosevelt, Col. Harrington.

Atlanta area workers on WPA "white collar" projects met at 26 separate banquets last night, celebrating the opening of "Achievement Week." They heard talks by members of the state office staff and radio addresses by Mrs. Roosevelt, WPA National Administrator Colonel F. C. Harrington and others.

"Achievement Week," to be featured in Atlanta by an exhibition opening Thursday in Taft Hall, is designed to acquaint the public with results obtained through WPA aid on community sponsored projects.

Workers meeting last night included those from the writers', visual education, library, workers' service, sewing rooms, housekeeping aide, Grady hospital, school lunch, nursery school, planning and zoning, rural property identification, Confederate records and historical records survey projects.

Latest Gas Mask Style Has 'Telephone' in It

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(P)—If you ever have tried to talk wearing a gas mask, this should cheer you:

Major General W. C. Baker, of the army's chemical warfare service, told senators that new gas masks have a "diaphragm transmitter something along the same line as a telephone transmitter."

"It is a disc directly in front of the mouth," he said, "is gas-proof, and transmits sound a little more readily than the service mask, which has nothing at all to aid in voice transmission."

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

Last Friday I went to Elberton for the northeastern regional convention of our Baptist young people in Georgia. It was another heartening manifestation of the sustained interest of the young people in the things that abide. Pastor Hoke Shirley and the people of his noble church, graciously aided by the entire community of Elberton, extended beautiful hospitality to the visitors from that section of the state. It is always a privilege to be in Elberton.

The crops in the northeastern section of the state are definitely behind schedule, due to the extended winter and now the dry weather. It is a little depressing to drive along the fine farms in that part of the state without seeing a sprig of corn or cotton up. I did see a few fields where there was evidence of the cotton and corn trying to break the crust, but all too few. The grain crops are promising, particularly around Comer, but the oats, wheat and rye are crying for rain and some warm nights.

There are fewer flowers in bloom in the yards from Atlanta to Elberton than any spring I have ever known. Now and then one comes upon a wonderful picture of flowers, but not enough of them. The evening air was fragrant with honeysuckle, as we drove home Friday night. In Monroe and Athens and Elberton we saw some wonderful roses, pansies, poppies and other flowers.

I was coasting along, on the way up, between Comer and Carlton, and I came upon large crews of workmen laying new rails on the Seaboard tracks. I had a little time to the good, which allowed me the privilege of watching the very interesting process of taking up the old rails and putting in the new ones without delaying train traffic. As I watched the hundred or more men at work, using modern machinery as well as their great human strength, it impressed me as a work of art. In the midst of their work the Robert E. Lee came thundering around the curve on its way to New York, unaffected by the work of changing the rails. One of the older Negroes in the crew was leading the crowd, singing:

"I've been workin' on de railroad, All de live-long day..."

As the Robert E. Lee sped past, the engineer seemed to pick up the notes of this famed railroad song as he artfully played with the varying tones of his whistle. I wish I had a record of the blending of the voices of those Negro workers and the whistle of that train. When at last the song was ended and the last of the whistle echoed across the fields, the old Negro who was leading, stood up, holding his big hammer in his right hand, his bare arm taut with powerful muscles, and said, "Roll on, roll on, and God bless you as you roll." Selah.

"Guess what I heard!"

"My mother was talking to yours about fresh milk being 'Nature's most nearly perfect food'..."

"Course I didn't know exactly what she meant till your mother said, yes, that was one big reason both of us kept so rosy-cheeked and healthy—'cause they gave us at least a quart of pure, sweet milk to drink every day. I didn't dream anything that tastes so good could be so good for us, did you?"

... Keep your growing youngsters healthy with a balanced diet that includes plenty of good, fresh milk. And drink at least a pint a day yourself, for the vital food and health elements it supplies. Get it at its best and safest...

Melton Urges Defense Gift of A Week's Salary

Griffin Editor Says Money Would Provide Millions for Arms.

GRiffin, Ga., May 20.—Quimby Melton, editor of the Griffin News, today called upon all citizens with an income from any source to "give Uncle Sam a week's pay" for use in building national defense.

"One week's income will not hurt anyone," the Georgia editor, a veteran of the first war and one-time candidate for national commander of the American Legion, said. "And if enough people will join in the campaign it will make millions available immediately to finance the building of airplanes, anti-aircraft guns, warships and the like."

Melton said the contributions would be an investment in security that will pay handsome dividends; it will be the premium on an insurance policy, one that will insure not only the life of the individual citizen, but the very life of the nation.

Estate Income.
He estimated that the average income of the American people is $25 a week, and that a million persons contributing a week's pay would turn over $25,000,000 to Uncle Sam.

Melton suggests that "where a person cannot spare an entire week's salary all at once, the payments be divided into four equal monthly ones."

"This will enable everyone," he said, "to contribute to the defense of America." He added:

"The American people bought millions of dollars worth of Liberty Bonds during the World War, many of them buying until it hurt."

Insurance Premium.

"They also have contributed millions of dollars to the Red Cross for war relief 'over there' they pay millions of dollars every year in insurance premiums on their lives—and now they can pay a premium on an insurance policy that not only will insure the lives of individual citizens, but the very nation."

Melton suggested that no one would be expected to make a contribution until at least a million people have agreed to enter the campaign. After a million had approved the plan, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau then would draw on anyone authorizing such action.

Under the plan, "all America could say to the world that Uncle Sam has their backing, not only in words, but in a financial manner," the editor said.

Airplane Goal Of 50,000 Held In U.S. Reach

supplies of aluminum, woods steel and other needed materials. If we run short of rubber we can resort to two substitutes, Neoprene or Buna, which are even more satisfactory than the genuine article, albeit more expensive. And while the petroleum industry sounds off periodically about our natural supplies of oil growing low, these pronouncements probably are susceptible to a heavy discount, the expert believes.

"Even so," Professor Knight added parenthetically, "this is a question which ought to be gone into thoroughly. Necessity for petroleum is the Achilles heel of mechanized warfare."

Adequate Aluminum.
While our aluminum supplies are adequate, if anything were to go wrong we would have three out: (1) steel tubing, (2) stainless steel and (3) plastic-bonded plywood. These materials represent 80 per cent of the plane, excluding the motor.

Professor Knight doesn't believe it practicable to attempt to rely solely on plastics for fuselage and wing members, owing to the enormous pressures which would be required. These pressures are in the neighborhood of 1,500 pounds per square inch, and work out to the seemingly impossible requirement of some 10,000,000 pounds pressure in the cases of the largest airplanes. It is rumored that the Germans are doing it, but, if they are, the process probably hasn't gone beyond the experimental stage.

Inasmuch as our present military airplane production is rated at about 1,000 per month, the expanded program would call for an increase of more than 300 per cent in all productive forces. Thus there must be an enormous training program for skilled operators in the plants. While virtually all of the larger manufacturers do today conduct training schools for the purpose, the government must augment them with many additional schools.

Vinson Called For Conference With Roosevelt

Ranking Admirals of Navy Also To Discuss Defense Program.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Marking the second time within a week Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, today received a summons from President Roosevelt to come to the White House for an important conference on national defense.

Dispensing with the usual practice of sending a formal note, Mr. Roosevelt got the Georgia congressman on the telephone late today and personally requested his presence at the executive mansion tomorrow noon, for a joint conference with ranking admirals of the navy. Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, received a similar summons.

Admirals Called.
Others listed for participation in the White House engagement are Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations; Admiral Towers, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, and Admiral Murrell, chief of yards and docks.

Representative Vinson declined comment on the scheduled conference beyond stating that he understood the chief subject to be discussed concerned plans for expansion of the naval air force. Last week Mr. Roosevelt called him to the White House for another conference on broader aspects of the administration's new billion-dollar defense program.

As the fruits of that conference, the Millicent congressmen, dean of the Georgia delegation in the lower house, today completed the semi-final draft of a new comprehensive bill designed to eliminate bottlenecks and speed up construction of 120 warships new being built or authorized. Half of the vessels are now actually well advanced in construction, while the other half are to be laid down in shipways of the nation next year. Among other things, the new legislation will give the President broad powers to suspend existing provisions of the Walsh-Healey act and other restrictive laws having a bearing on labor and naval constructions.

Following tomorrow's conference Chairman Vinson is expected to take up immediately with his committee a bill embodying the expanded needs of the naval air force. Advance estimates were unavailable from official sources today, but it is predicted in informed quarters that the present pending authorization of 4,500 naval planes will be increased several fold—in keeping with Mr. Roosevelt's declaration to congress last week that he wanted to see the air strength of the country raised to 50,000 planes, with a 50,000-plane annual production capacity developed by the American aircraft industry.

Vinson said he was prepared to rush through his committee any recommendations which the President and naval high command deem appropriate to the present needs of the country.

'Smile Buttons' Help Atlantans Forget the War

Thomas Romeo Starts Crusade To Banish Current 'Gloominess.'

Thomas Andrew Romeo goes around starting movements. Generally it's some personal movement, such as becoming a prizefighter, or an author, which he did with some success.

This time it's a movement to stop the war. He thinks the country is being swamped by a wave of sourpussness, you might say, and he believes such a thing is fatal. He thinks if things keep up that way there is no telling what catastrophes will be our lot. He was talking about this matter with G. J. Whitaker in the Grant building yesterday morning, and they both decided that if people didn't quit glooming around there will be chaos. So he and Mr. Whitaker went to a place around the corner and bought a bunch of buttons with the one word "smile" in big letters on them. They started passing these things around, and they say the effect has been miraculous.

Georgia G. O. P. Leaders Deny 'Dewey Ouster'

Reply to Gleason Charge Cites Recognition of Harry Sommers.

By The Associated Press.

Spokesmen for the Republican party in Georgia denied yesterday that a supporter of Thomas E. Dewey was excluded as a delegate to the national convention because of his affiliation.

Frank Gleason, of Rossville, loser in a contest for the delegateship, walked out of the Republican convention here Saturday declaring that "any man with the gumption to come out for Tom Dewey has no more chance in this convention than a snowball in Chicago."

Leaders Reply.

Replying, Republican National Committeeman James W. Arnold, State Chairman Clint W. Hager, James H. Crumrey, temporary and permanent chairman of the state convention, and Wilson Williams, secretary of the state central committee, issued the following statement:

The statement by Frank M. Gleason to the effect that he was discriminated against by the credentials committee and the Republican state convention because he was a supporter of Thomas E.

Dewey is unfair to Mr. Dewey, a reflection upon the committee, and the Republican state convention.

"The same convention which recognized Harry Sommers of the fifth congressional district, an avowed Dewey supporter, if Mr. Gleason was supporting Mr. Dewey, no one in the state knew it. Committeeman Arnold has a letter from Mr. Gleason stating that Gleason is a Taft supporter. Chairman Hager was told by Gleason that Gleason was supporting Stiles Bridges.

"Temporary and Permanent Chairman Crumrey states that presidential candidates or aspirants were not considered in the appointment of the credentials committee."

Gleason left the convention hall after the credentials committee decided in favor of D. C. Cole, of Marietta, in a contest from the seventh district.

Georgia Council Elects Officers at Annual Session in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., May 20.—(AP) The Georgia state council, Knights of Columbus, in session at its annual convention here today, re-elected Thomas J. Gilmore, of Atlanta, state deputy.

Other officers named were George T. Flynn, of Atlanta, secretary; R. S. Heslen, of Augusta, treasurer; Leo Leonard, of Columbus, advocate; and Thomas J. Canty, of Savannah, warden.

In the absence of the Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Savannah-Atlanta, the state chaplain, the Rev. Joseph G. Gallagher, S. M., of Brunswick, acted as chaplain for the meeting.

It was voted to hold the next annual convention in Brunswick.

MALMEDY RETURNS TO REICH—This picture, sent by radio from Berlin last night, shows, according to German advices, Nazi tanks moving through the flag-decorated streets of Malmédy. Adolf Hitler yesterday decreed the reincorporation into the Reich of Malmédy, Eupen and Moresnet, a tiny eastern segment of Belgium carved by the Versailles treaty from Germany's Rhineland.

Admiral Leahy May Be Named As Co-ordinator

Puerto Rican Governor Rumored for Defense Position.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(UP) Reports circulated in official circles tonight that Admiral William D. Leahy, former chief of naval operations and now Governor of Puerto Rico, may soon be named to head new division of national defense co-ordination.

He arrives here tomorrow to report to President Roosevelt on the economic and defense aspects of the island territory, which is rapidly being converted into a Gibraltar of the Caribbean. He said before his departure from San Juan that he was going to place his services at Mr. Roosevelt's disposal, although he expected to remain as Governor for the time being.

May Be Recalled. When Leahy was appointed last fall, after he was retired from the navy for age, the President is said to have told him that he would be recalled if a national emergency developed.

Naval experts class him as one of the ablest of recent chiefs of operations. He directed much of the naval expansion program which is now being rushed to enactment.

A national defense co-ordination division, approximating the defense councils of other nations, has long been discussed by military planners. It would, it is said, overcome objections to separate air forces in the army and navy.

Possible Secretary. Leahy also was discussed tonight as a possible successor to Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, who expects to resign to run for the New Jersey Democratic gubernatorial nomination. There are no legal barriers to such an appointment, although it is arduous that the army and navy shall be under complete civilian control. A position as co-ordinator of defense could be filled by a naval officer without violating tradition, inasmuch as the office would be subordinate to the secretarieships of the army and navy.

Leahy would be well qualified for such an assignment, being pointed out, not only on the basis of his naval experience, but because of his recent work in Puerto Rico, where a mighty air base, intended to head off enemies mov-

Fred Snite Jr. Will Be Father In September

Famous Youth Reveals He and Wife Expect Stork Soon.

CHICAGO, May 20.—(P)—Fred Snite Jr., famed infantile paralysis victim, and his wife expect a child next September.

The "boiler kid" made the announcement himself, in a mimeographed paper received by several hundred friends today. The last item on the fourth and last page of the latest edition of his publication, "Back Talk," set forth simply:

"The long-legged bird is expected by Tessie and Frederick in September.

"And so you see, God continues to shower us with all his choicest blessings, for which we are ever grateful."

"Tessie" is the former Teresa Larkin, of Dayton, Ohio. She and young Snite—her 29 and she's 25—were married at the home of his father, head of a loan bank, in suburban River Forest August 10, 1939. During the ceremony he lay full length in a huge respirator—a huge breathing apparatus known to many as an "iron lung," and to Snite as a "boiler."

Smiling Snite has spent most of his time in one since he was stricken April 1, 1936, in Peiping, China. Snite and his wife will remain in Miami Beach, Fla. until July 1.

Americans in Lebanon Advised to Go Home
BEIRUT, Lebanon, May 20.—(P)—United States Consul General E. E. Palmer tonight advised Americans in Lebanon and Syria "to give careful thought to the advisability of returning to the United States with the least possible delay."

The same advice was given to inquirers at Jerusalem. Approximately 8,500 Americans are estimated to be living in the Holy Land.

Flies Ask Perilous Job, Get It, Succeed, Vanish

LONDON, May 20.—(P)—This is the story correspondents with the Royal Air Force in France sent back today:

Eight times R. A. F. bombers tried to destroy a German bridge, but failed.

Then the pilots and crews of four bombers went to their commanding officer with the request, "Can we finish it off?"

The permission was given. The four bombers took off. None returned.

The bridge was destroyed.

Mrs. Whitney Granted An Uncontested Divorce
CARSON CITY, Nev., May 20.—(P)—Mrs. Elizabeth Whitney was granted an uncontested divorce decree from her wealthy sportsman husband, John Hay "Jack" Whitney, by District Judge J. C. Guild today. She charged desertion.

Dressed in a simple blue sports outfit, Mrs. Whitney was calm throughout the very short hearing which was held in the courtroom. She was posed for press photographers. She declined to make any statement concerning the divorce, however.

Higgins Hits Three Home Runs on Successive Trips to Plate

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

Better Odds Late May's motor madness, the 500-mile race at Indianapolis, is often as rough on the epidermis as a parachute jump with an umbrella, and yet the odds of living are a great deal better for the two Frenchmen now on the high seas bound for the annual event.

There is something to sportsmanship, after all. You wouldn't think, offhand, that the French army, which is having as much as it can do to repel the Nazi thrusts, would demobilize several able-bodied citizens and dispatch them to America in the name of sport.

The French drivers, Rene Dreyfuss and Rene LeBegue, together with their relief driver, Luigi Chinetti, are en route to this country aboard the Italian liner Conte di Savoia.

The French are ardent auto racing enthusiasts. In fact, auto racing is a traditional and important sport throughout Europe. The war has abolished all Grand Prix events.

And so, to promote bonds of good will between France and America by sportsmanship, and at the same time to keep the French conscious of things other than the horror of war, it was decided to permit the French drivers to come to this country.

Perhaps in these last 20 years if the Germans had had pennant races and ninth-inning rallies, touch-down runs and photo finishes to keep their minds occupied, instead of the death, destruction and revenge motif, there would not be the horror that now envelops Europe.

In spite of it all, the French will keep the sports tradition alive by having their drivers at Indianapolis. Somehow it seems greater than a gesture but is more a symbolism of the real worth of wholesome competition.

Arms Conference The other day when Clay Bryant, Dizzy Dean and Lefty Gomez visited a specialist in Baltimore, C. M. Gibbs, of the Sun, quipped:

"War's influence is reaching into baseball apparently."

Bees Trounce Reds; Chicago Beats Dodgers

Melton Blanks Cards; Phillies Score 7 in 9th To Win.

BOSTON, May 20.—(P)—The Boston Bees trounced Cincinnati today, 13 to 4, driving four pitchers from the box. Homers by Al Lopez and Bama Rowell accounted for two of the Bees' 13 hits.

CINCINNATI, May 20.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds were routed by the Boston Bees today, 13 to 4. The Bees' four pitchers combined to allow only four hits and one run in nine innings.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(P)—After trailing all the way, the Phillies put on a seven-run rally in the ninth today to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 7. The Pirates scored four times in the third and three times in the eighth.

Luttrell, Seven Other Matmen Here Tonight

The Crackers may have no ball park when they return from the current road trip. Eight giant matmen will be turned loose tonight by Matchmaker Bill Hartman and four of them, Cowboy Luttrell, Babe Zaharias, Angelo Cistoldi and Herbie Freeman, will be in there swinging at the same time.

Luttrell and Freeman will pair off against Zaharias and Cistoldi in the first team match ever staged here by heavyweights. The Cowboy and Freeman, who was refereeing, teamed up against Dorv Roche last week, but Hartman thinks perhaps Zaharias and Cistoldi are two of the game's ranking villains, may prove poison. The men will battle until only one is left in the ring. And anything goes.

Hans Schnabel, beaten only by Ray Steele in his last 91 matches, meets Tom Hanley, undefeated here, in the semi-final. Marvin Jones, from Houston, encounters the Scotchman, Dr. Gordon McKenzie, in the opening event at 8:30. Tickets may be purchased at 42 Forsyth street. The phone is MA. 7167.

Kennolia Tourney Will Start Today

Kennolia Tennis Club's sixth annual spring tournament will open this afternoon, with Hank Crawford defending the championship he won last year.

Jack Teagle, by virtue of his excellent showing this year, draws No. 2 position with Dr. Glenn Dudley and Donald Floyd third and fourth, respectively. Glenn McCord, Charlie Rice and Ted Teagle play the feature match at 5 o'clock.

The 4 o'clock matches are: Maurice Bevensen vs. Will Johnson, Dr. Glenn Dudley vs. Nicholson, Bobby Hill vs. J. B. Dutton, Harry McCord vs. Paul Sudan, Carl Madson vs. Donald Floyd, Red Enloe vs. Jack Teagle, Art Crawford vs. Larry Bradberry, At 6 o'clock: Hubert Callaway vs. Weldon Salesky, Roy Wilson vs. Red Hill, Preston Chambers vs. John Chambers, T. W. Fowler vs. Rex Lee.

Garcia or Overlin Get 175-Lb. Title Go

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs gilded Thursday night's Garcia-Overlin middleweight title fight today when he announced unexpectedly that the winner will get a shot at the light-heavyweight crown this summer.

Cefeirio Garcia, Filipino "Bolo" puncher, is favored at 12 to 5 to remain his claims to the middleweight crown against Ken Overlin, of Washington, D. C., at Madison Square Garden.

Similarly Billy Conn, the ring's master boxer, is favored to keep his light-heavy title in a return engagement with Gus Leonesovich, of New Jersey, at Detroit, June 5.

Tiger Infielder Equals Record; Bats in 7 Runs

Al Smith Gives Yanks 3 Hits; Chisox Win First Home Game.

DETROIT, May 20.—(P)—Pinky Higgins, Detroit Tiger third baseman, hit three home runs on successive trips to the plate in today's game with the Boston Red Sox, batting in seven runs. His feat tied the major league record for successive homers.

Higgins' first two circuit blows were made off the delivery of Bob Grove, each coming with Rudy York on base. The first tied the score at 2-all and the second at 6-all.

After Rookie Herb Hash relieved Grove on the mound for Boston and walked Charlie Gehring and Hank Greenberg in the Detroit seventh, Jack Wilson was called in to pitch. Higgins blasted his third homer, sending Detroit into a 9-7 lead. The final score was 10-7.

Foxh homered for Boston with the bases full.

Gilbert Likes Vols, Chicks And Crackers

Larry Thinks Any One of Other Five Can Win Fourth Place.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 20.—(P)—So far as Larry Gilbert, boss of the team that's on top, is concerned, the first three places in the Southern Association standings are held by the class of the league.

"It looks to me," he opined, "like Memphis, Atlanta and our club will be three of those in the first division. Anyone of the other five has a chance to be fourth. Birmingham has a lot of power, but Knoxville could finish in the first division. So could Chattanooga or Little Rock or even New Orleans. They're all about alike."

Gilbert, however, made no offer to rank the first three teams.

Far from dejected over the three-game pasting his team took from Memphis in the club's initial series, the Vol' skipper took the set-backs philosophically.

"How often do you think anybody's going to hold us to seven runs in three games?" he asked. "Without waiting for a guess, he volunteered: 'Maybe once in a while, but those games are going to be few and far between. We've got too much power.'"

INSIDE STORY

There's more than one way to tailor a suit. There's a "winter way"—using paddings, linings, interlinings and heavy fabrics. And there's the "Palm Beach Way"—achieving the same smart fit and correct lines without piling up weight or sacrificing coolness.

The 1940 Palm Beach Suits

have the same broader draped shoulder and snug neckline . . . the same refinements in fit, fashion and finish that distinguish fine regular-weight suits. Yet an average Palm Beach suit weighs less than 37 ounces—forty to sixty ounces less than ordinary winter clothes.

See these amazing washable suits today. Try one on—experience the delightful sensation of freedom and comfort. Look at yourself in the mirror. Your eyes will open to new horizons in summer style and value.

Grantland Rice Is Presented Sportsmanship Club Award

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Grantland Rice, nationally known sports writer, today was presented with the annual sportsmanship award of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood.

In presenting the award, Devereaux Milburn, president of the organization and former international polo star, said Rice was selected because of his "service to the cause of American sportsmanship throughout his career as a writer, both prose and poetry."

Walter Johnson, Alonzo A. Stagg and Jack Moulton, of Cornell, are among those who have received the award in recent years.

Atlanta Only 2 1-2 Contests Back of Tribe

Winning Record Will Place Club in Striking Distance of First.

By JACK TROY.

Having won 10 of the last 15 games—the last five in a row—the Crackers tonight open an important seven-game road trip in Birmingham.

Larry Miller, who has won three and lost three, will pitch the first of a three-game series at Birmingham tonight.

The Crackers go on the road in third place, but are only five and one-half games behind pace-setting Nashville, and only two and one-half games in back of Memphis.

A winning record on the road would enable the Crackers to return home within striking distance of the top.

Following the three games at Birmingham, which in the past has proved a "jinx" town for Atlanta teams, there will be four games at New Orleans.

Steady improvement in the hitting of Willard Marshall and more consistent pitching have contributed to the rise of the Atlanta team.

Tom Hefey hasn't started hitting yet, but may find himself on the trip. His drives are bound to start falling safely sooner or later. Right now the Crackers don't seem to need anything except a little good luck and stout pitching at Birmingham.

Jeffra Pastes Archibald For Claim on Title

BALTIMORE, May 20.—(AP)—Harry Jeffra, of Baltimore, settled his personal grudge with Joey Archibald tonight by beating out a 15-round decision over the Providence, R. I. fighter in a bout billed as a battle for the world's featherweight championship.

Jeffra scored by a wide margin and won a unanimous decision that was cheered loudly by a capacity crowd of 4,500 in the coliseum. Jeffra weighed 123 1-2 and Archibald 122.

The Maryland and New York boxing commissions recognized Jeffra, former bantamweight champion, as the new king of the featherweight division.

Manning Is Talk Of Amateur Fans

Talk of the amateur fight front in this section is Jack Manning, the hard-hitting heavyweight who has greatly impressed boxing critics with his savage performances at Lakewood park.

Manning's two smashing knock-out victories over Tommy Mann have sent his stock soaring. Jim Downing, promoter, is looking in all the spots where scared fighters hide, hoping to find a suitable opponent for Manning when the weekly show is held Friday night.

A fee is also needed for Jack Brown, Ben Brown's 170-pound brother who made his debut with a technical knockout over Bill Harris in two rounds last week.

Interested fighters may contact Downing at J.A. 2501.

Buford Defeats Callaway, 12-6

BUFORD, Ga., May 20.—The Buford Shoemakers defeated the Callaway Mills nine, of LaGrange, 12 to 6, here tonight.

Joe Sims shut out Callaway until his teammates had given him a 11-0 lead. Callaway did his scoring the final three innings.

Charlie Treadway and Gerald McQuinn each got four for five for the winners while Crawford and Walls got two each for the losers. The two clubs will meet again here tomorrow night at 8:30.

Score by innings:
Callaway 100 223 108—41 12 3
Buford 100 223 108—41 12 3
Johnson and Walls; Sims and Lyons.

Savannah Climbs Into First Place

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 20.—(AP) Savannah moved into first place in the South Atlantic League tonight by beating Columbia, 5 to 4, in the 10th inning.

Jack Barnes' double to right center scored Evans from second base with the big run in the extra inning.

Savannah leads in the series two games to none, with the rubber game coming up tomorrow night.

BADMINTON CHAMPION—Miss Roline Adair captured top honors in the women's division of the city badminton tourney completed last night. Miss Adair defeated Mrs. Jimmy Morris in the finals, 15-6, 15-2. Miss Adair also paired with Mrs. Cornelia Campbell to win the women's doubles title.

ALL IN THE GAME

"They visited Dr. George Bennett and had an arms conference."

Local Entries Mighty Midget auto races come to Atlanta tonight, and in the field will be Harley Taylor, of Atlanta, the south's outstanding dirt track auto racer.

He'll give the experienced midget drivers a real run for the purse money.

Taylor apparently is willing to try anything that is propelled by a motor. Recently he made his debut as an outboard motorboat racer at Jackson Lake.

Auto racing is more in his line, however, and it will be interesting to see how he fares in the smaller machines and on a fifth-of-a-mile track. Red Singleton also entered late yesterday.

Old Warren baseball field will be the scene of tonight's initial midget races and a colorful program has been lined up by Jack Richards.

He'll Need It Raymond Johnson, Nashville Tennessean, was wondering recently how a real rivalry could be stirred up between Atlanta and Nashville since, as Johnson put it, the Vols would be so far ahead of Atlanta all during the season there wouldn't be much of a pennant contest.

I haven't heard from Johnson since 53-year-old Truck Hannah caught both games of Memphis' double victory over Nashville Sunday, but I can answer his question on that rivalry business.

We'll spot Socko Rocco Sulphur Dell and all those extra games he has played, and still take Willard Marshall to top him by a goodly margin in home runs.

Rocco has a total of 10 homers for 33 games, while Marshall has hit 7 in 21 games. Five of them have come in the last seven games. He is just now getting along toward his stride.

Up to now the talk of the league as regards slugging has concerned Rocco and Mike Dejan, of Chattanooga.

But more attention will be paid Marshall, of Atlanta, in the future.

Mioland Injured, Is Lost for Season

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—

Charles S. Howard announced today that his three-year-old Mioland had been injured after bolting during a workout at Belmont Park. He said the horse had run away during a workout at the Maryland course on Saturday, throwing his exercise boy and stumbling on a concrete walk. Howard did not say how serious the injuries were, but added that "Mioland was pretty badly hurt and will not be able to race again this year."

Jack Bloomfield Pins Jack Dillon

Jack Bloomfield, Jewish light-heavyweight grappler, won over Jack Dillon, of Nebraska, Monday night in the feature match of the opening of the light-heavyweight wrestling season at the Red Rock arena. Dillon won the first fall, while the two deciding falls went to Bloomfield.

The 45-minute, one-fall semi-win-up match saw Jack McDams win over Red Dugan, while "Wild Bill" Collins, College Park, was disqualified for foul tactics in his opening skirmish with Tony Papalino, popular young New York Italian.

CUBS 6, DODGERS 4.

BROOKLYN, May 20.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs outslugged the Dodgers again today to take a 6-to-4 decision with a 13-hit attack on four Brooklyn pitchers. The Cubs used three hurlers themselves, although all Brooklyn's runs were bunched in the sixth inning, when Babe Phelps hit a three-run homer off Bill Lee.

Mrs. Page's 74 Leads Qualifying in Southern Women's Meet

Dorothy Kirby Third With 77; Has Best Nine

Jameson Second With 76; Dot Out in 42 Back in 35.

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT.
FORT WORTH, Tex., May 20.—(AP)—Genial Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page burned par in a wind-harried round of 74 to capture medalist honors of the Women's Southern Golf Association today.

Two strokes behind came National Champion Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, Tex. Calm deliberate play that branched into the spectacular because of split-the-pin iron shots enabled Mrs. Page to card 36-38—74, one under women's par. A magnificent start, four consecutive pars and a grand eagle three on the 450-yard fifth, gave momentum to a round marred only by an out-of-bounds shot on the 13th.

On the fifth she belted great shots to the green and coolly dunked and eight-foot putt for her eagle.

Miss Jameson, definitely on her game again after a lapse that has brought defeat in eight of the nine tournaments she has played since winning the national title, was a study in accuracy until the final two holes. Needing two pars to tie Mrs. Page's 74, Betty took three shots from the edge of the 17th and then trapped her third shot on the 444-yard 18th, blasting out for a bogie six.

The finest comeback and the best nine holes of the day was recorded by slender Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta, Ga., youngster with the sound swing. Out in 42 after straying far and wide in the rather brisk wind, she carded six pars and three birdies for 35 on the home nine and her third ranking 77.

Defending Champion Marion Miley, bothered constantly by an unruly driver that sent the shots sailing to the right, struggled with her long game and finally finished with 38-42—80. But she was two shots better off than the hometown favorite, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, who was shockingly off her game on her home course with 42-40—82.

Mighty Midgets Roar Tonight; Harley Taylor Enters Races

Everything is in readiness for the grand opening of midget auto racing tonight at the Atlanta Speedway, starting at 8:15.

Promoter Jack Richards has signed a number of the nation's greatest small car drivers and announces Harley Taylor, well-known Atlanta speed boat and big car pilot, is a last-minute entry. Taylor has entered tonight's program to satisfy a dispute raging about the speed one of these 950-pound bullets can attain. However, Harley will have his troubles, because such drivers are entered as Hal Keel, Kip Young and Bullet Bradford. These daredevils have families to support and this is their one means of livelihood. They drive for keeps.

Red Singleton, another late entry, will give Atlanta two threats in the opening night's events.

Richards promises one of the greatest racing meets in his seven years of promoting midget racing and plans to stage programs every Tuesday night and Sunday afternoon.

The more than 4,000 who pack their way around the oval tonight are assured by the management that there will be no dust. The track has been treated with calcium of chloride and passed by the engineers of the product as tops for auto racing. Neil Ironmonger, one of America's foremost racing announcers, will handle the mike. Bob Green, former big car racing star, is track manager.

HARLEY TAYLOR.
(Last-Minute Entry)

The Speedway (formerly Warren Field) is located at 900 Fair street.

Birmingham is the fair-haired city as far as the 1941 tournament is concerned. . . . Louisville has held the tourney twice since the association was organized in 1902. . . . In 1904, Andy Manson, of Darien, Ga., beat W. P. Hill, of Atlanta, 4 and 2, in the finals at the Louisville Country Club.

but the ball was hiding right behind the flag, a foot from the hole. . . . How many times has that happened.

Moss Ball.
Howard Beckett, Capital City pro, knocked two shots out of bounds at the 12th and still got a par 5. . . . Mrs. Charles Swann, of Atlanta, won a prize in Golfing's queer golf stories contest. . . . Mrs. Swann told of playing a shot to the par-3 16th hole, Hyde Park Club, Jacksonville, Fla. . . . Her ball caught in moss hanging from a tree. . . . No amount of work would dislodge the ball. She and the caddy gave up.

Georgia pros: Black Rock wants to hold an open tournament, all of the state's pros and amateurs to be eligible. . . . The club is eager to know how many would be interested in the tourney before going ahead with plans. . . . Let's hear from you. Jimmy Demaret thinks 286 will take the National Open at Canterbury Country Club on June 6-8. . . . The course is rated one of the toughest in the nation.

Red Drew Gets Ace

Harold (Red) Drew, the Alabama football coach, had an ace at Tuscaloosa the other day. . . . He is now trying to decide whether he'll go to the National Amateur or turn pro. . . . Frank Thomas was in the foursome with Drew. . . . Jinks Gillem, new Sewanee grid mentor; Scrappy Moore, ex-Georgia great and now coach at Chattanooga, and the Alabamians enjoyed some golf while attending the Southern Conference track meet. . . . If you think those fellows need a crying towel during football, you ought to hear them after a golf match.

Have you ever tried swinging at an imaginary ball two inches behind the real pellet? . . . It will cure a smothered hook, another club told me. . . . Joe Kirkwood Jr. had a bad nine, tore up one of his clubs. . . . That afternoon he had 9 birdies on 18 holes, but ruined a brilliant score with a couple of buzzards—6's, on par-4 holes, to you.

Kenneth Gregory has the right psychology for getting on the 6th green at East Lake's No. 1 course. . . . Greg uses a new ball on the island hole. . . . By doing that he convinces himself he won't go near the water. . . . That type of psychology might break a man at 75 cents a try. But it works for Gregory. . . . Incidentally, Ken has transferred to the news side of the Associated Press here. . . . He was southern sports editor for years and made many friends, especially at golf tournaments. Bill Stephens played Sunday for the first time since the City Open. . . . He had an eagle on the 12th at Druid Hills and putted at two more.

Aggies Battle Smithie Nine This Afternoon

Monroe Can Clinch Big Five Title in Game at Ball Park.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
The Monroe Aggies have a chance to clinch the pennant in the "Big Five" baseball league today. If they defeat Sidney Scarborough's Tech High gang when they tie up at 3 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park, the Aggies will be the champs. Should they come a cropper, Tech High and Boys' High will be tied for the lead and Monroe can make it a three-way tie by tripping Jordan High in a rained-out tilt.

Coach Whack Hyder's nine has dropped but two games to three each for the Smithies and Purples. Pitching Ace Ted Forbes, who last Tuesday allowed Commercial only one hit, has been the Aggies' most dependable hurler, and will be on the mound today in the all-important meet. Opposing him will be Forrest (Duck) Smith, the Smithies' stumpy right-hander, who has hurled good ball all year.

The regular league season is over, and only the rained-out games remain. So for once Boys' High will be pulling for the Smithies to win a game. Last year the Purples and Smithies finished in a stalemate for the city title. This year each has beaten the other once, and naturally they would like the opportunity to determine which is the better team in a play-off.

Should Tech High or Monroe cop the title, a peculiar situation will arise in that Shorty Doyal's Purples won the state championship in the first annual prep tournament staged by the University of Georgia in Athens earlier in the season, yet they will not be champions in their own league.

Decatur High Jolts Marietta's Hopes, 8 to 5.

Decatur High gave Marietta High's hopes of overtaking West Fulton in the N. G. I. C. baseball league pennant race a severe jolt yesterday when they overcame a four-run lead to defeat the Mariettans, 8 to 5, on the Decatur diamond.

West Fulton looks to be sure of the N. G. I. C. title now, though they have one rained-out game to play with Marietta. The regular league schedule is over.

Brothers File Entry in 'Cycle Races Sunday

Two brothers, Frenchy and Woodie Castonguay, both national champions, Monday filed their entries for the third annual Lakewood Speedway championship motorcycle races Sunday afternoon on the Lakewood oval.

There have been numerous brother combinations in sports of all kinds, but seldom have a pair equalled the championship achievements of the Castonguays from Springfield, Mass.

Frenchy holds the 10-mile national motorcycle title, while Woodie won the 25-mile event last year for highest honors in the country for that distance.

C. R. Ledbetter, an Atlanta boy who Sunday won a 20 mile feature race at Gadsden, Ala., and Teddy Edwards, Atlanta businessman who two weeks ago won a 100-mile championship at Chattanooga, Tenn., also filed their entries for Sunday's Lakewood races.

In addition to his recent victories, Edwards, formerly of Portland, Maine, holds the national championship over the five-mile route.

East Point Wins.

The East Point Tigers beat the Lakewood Heights team yesterday, 24 to 6. Herbert Thomas and Stewart were the leading hitters for the winners, the former with 5 for 6 and Stewart 4 for 5.

Cuyler's Protest Rejected by Scott
President Trammell Scott, of the Southern association, yesterday rejected a protest by Manager Hazen Cuyler, of the Chattanooga baseball club, that the Chattanooga-Memphis game on May 7 be played over because of an umpire's error.

Cuyler said Alex Hooks hit a line-drive over the left-center field and that Base Umpire Paul Blackard called the player out, not seeing that the Chick outfielder had dropped the ball.

Hooks left second base to argue with Blackard and was tagged with the ball. Umpire Uley Welsh Jr. then called the player out.

Scott ruled that after the ball was dropped by the Memphis outfielder and acknowledged by the umpire, Hooks automatically became a runner on base with the ball in play and should not have left second. He said the score would stand: Memphis 8, Chattanooga 7.

10 1-2 Pound Bass, Biggest of 1940, Causes a Traffic Jam Here

By JOHN MARTIN.

A granddaddy bass caused a traffic jam at the corner of North Pryor and Auburn avenue yesterday. Not because he was so big that pedestrians and autos and trucks couldn't squeeze past the intersection, but because this was where the inevitable picture-taking of H. C. Norris' fish took place.

There was still room to pass as Norris hauled his 10 1-2-pounder shoulder high for the cameraman's shot. But everything that came this way was a human being. It's human nature to stop and gape at giants. And, verily, here was a giant. Even a fluffy lap dog, backed by his owner and behind the thick glass of a town car, was awed by the sight of this big fish. A cannibal that gave up his free run on bream and small members of his own tribe in Lake Burton to stare, glassy-eyed, at the curious mob of the city.

Norris dragged his bass—the largest officially reported and weighed in Georgia this year—into town after a two-day foray on the big power company lake. The fish was taken on a Creek Chub Dingbat, a light artificial minnow that plys the depths. The fish was taken at approximately 10:15 last Saturday morning, in case there are other anglers who want to do as much as they can to duplicate this score.

It took no terrific struggle to conquer this big bronze-back. Instead, Norris declared, he came in somewhat meekly. But not until he had made three "runs" and climaxed each with a lunge out of the water.

"I gave him line three times," the Atlanta angler said, "but after he jumped once he lost some of his fight. It was comparatively easy getting him alongside our boat. My boatman, however, was afraid to reach for his gills until I convinced him the bass had lost all of his fight."

The fish had a girth of 18 inches and was 30 inches long. Wingfield Short, authority on the subject, explained that such trim measurements placed Norris' bass in the select "streamlined" class. It is true that this species ordinarily is much deeper and clumsier looking than was Norris' prize.

ROTARY HEAD—J. Cleve Allen (above), of Elberton, yesterday was nominated for Georgia district governor of Rotary International at the state convention at Sea Island.

Rotary Selects Elberton Man As State Chief

International Aide Tells of Nations Now Engaged in War.

SEA ISLAND, Ga., May 20.—(P)—Georgia Rotarians today nominated J. C. (Cleve) Allen, of Elberton, to be the next governor of the Georgia district, and heard an international officer report that "750 Rotary Clubs are in countries or geographical regions which are at war or engaged in hostilities."

Russell V. Williams, of Chicago, representing Rotary International, told Georgians that "of the 52 countries in which there are Rotary Clubs, 38 are at war or engaged in hostilities."

"A 39th country, Finland, finally was forced to cede to Russia a territory including a city (Viipur) in which a Rotary Club had once been active."

Reviewing the over-snarled problems of promoting international goodwill, Williams observed: "We are prone to condemn peoples as well as persons and yet, in Rotary, in our International Rotary gatherings, we have had occasion to meet with Rotarians of scores of other countries and have learned that in many ways the peoples of the world are much the same. . . . We know that peoples all over the world inherently desire to live in peace with their neighbors."

Allen was nominated without opposition for the balloting scheduled for tomorrow. He will succeed Maynard Ashworth, Columbus publisher, who gave an accounting of his work at the state convention here.

Ashworth said renewed efforts would be launched to elect Abit Nix, of Athens, as International president.

Charles S. Morris, governor of the New York city and the eastern New York state district, was on the program for double duty—a review of Rotary objectives and a humorous address.

Rotarians were guests this afternoon at a fish fry arranged by T. G. Reeves, president of the Columbus club. Tonight's program included presentation of awards for the afternoon golf tournament and a talk by Preston S. Arkwright, of Atlanta.

Drives 335,000 Miles Without an Accident

CHICAGO, May 20.—(P)—Herbert Mielke, delivery driver for a Loop department store, has a non-accident record of which to be proud.

In 15 years' service with the firm, Mielke has driven 335,000 miles without an accident. In that period it is estimated he has delivered 1,500,000 packages.

Lambdin Kay Re-elected by Welfare Group

Social Planning Council Names Other Officers, Hears Report.

Lambdin Kay was re-elected president of the Atlanta Social Planning Council, clearing house for more than 100 Atlanta health and welfare agencies, at its annual meeting yesterday.

D. F. McClatchey and Mrs. Leonard Haas will serve as vice presidents and L. D. Sharp was named as secretary-treasurer. The five new members of the executive board are Harlee Branch Jr., Carlyle Frasier, Robert Troutman, Mrs. Ernestine Magill and Dr. R. F. Payne.

Other board members are Dr. C. C. Avan, E. S. Papy, George K. Selden, Mrs. W. E. DuPre, Miss Metta Mae Mitchell, Weaver Marr, Ed M. Kahn, Stephens Mitchell, Mrs. Everard Richardson, Dr. Herman Turner, Boyce M. Edens and Forrester Washington. Miss Rhoda Kaufman will continue as executive secretary.

The annual report described the council's work toward co-ordinating the effort entailed in maintaining the institutions and services involved in the expenditure of $14,000,000 last year for health and welfare needs in Atlanta.

Generally speaking, there probably isn't a single article in your attic that is absolutely useless. Everything has some value to someone. Make a list of your discarded articles and turn them into cash with a Constitution Want Ad.

Huge Fund Sought As Commodity Aid

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(P)—Congress was asked today to give the Surplus Commodities Corporation an additional $100,000,000 for the purchase of farm commodities in an effort to check recent price declines.

Senator Bilbo, Democrat, Mississippi, and Representative Harrington, Democrat, Iowa, introduced identical resolutions in the senate and house in behalf of leading agricultural organizations and the conference of Southern Commissioners of Agriculture. These agencies urged passage of such legislation at a meeting here yesterday.

Colonel C. C. Hanson, secretary to the Southern Agricultural Commissioners, told yesterday's conference the present price decline involved the potential loss of millions of dollars to American farmers. The resolution would direct the Surplus Commodities Corporation to purchase $10,000,000 of lard and cottonseed oil immediately.

McGill To Address Survey Body Here

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, will speak to the personnel of the Historical Records Survey, a unit of the division of professional and service projects of the WPA, at 11 o'clock Friday morning in the Five Ivy Street building.

Mayor Hartsfield will be the guest speaker at 11 o'clock this morning, in the records survey headquarters in the Ivy Street building. Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Journal, spoke to the unit yesterday, commending their factual work on state records.

Field Artillery Quota Unlimited

Georgia and Florida have been assigned an unlimited quota this June to fill vacancies in the 83rd field artillery and the eighth infantry at Fort Benning, Fourth Corps Area headquarters announced yesterday.

Number of vacancies in other units to be filled by recruits from the two states are 21st Engineers, McDill field, Fla., 254; quartermaster bas units, McDill field, 18, and 48th quartermaster regiment, Fort Benning, nine.

Vacancies for 43 Negro troops exist in the 24th infantry and 48th quartermaster regiment, both at Benning. The Atlanta recruiting office is on the third floor of the New Post Office building.

Vertical Take-Off Plane Makes Successful Flight

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 20.—(P)—Ivor Sikorsky, 51, Russian-born aeronautical engineer, today made the first successful fully-controlled flight ever executed in his helicopter, whose vertical takeoffs and landings he believes may revolutionize flying.

The primitive 75-horsepower craft—equipped with a variable pitch "windmill" rotor which lifted and let down the machine to and from a height of 30 feet—flew 200 feet down a field adjoining the Vought-Sikorsky Aircraft plant. Two additional tiny rotors in the rear of the fuselage acted as elevator and a third as a rudder.

Average Girl With Brains Can Pass For Attractive

By Ida Jean Kain

Take a note from a songbird: Regardless of a woman's job, it is her business to be just as attractive as she can possibly make herself.

Boiled down somewhat, that expresses the viewpoint of Jean Dickenson, a star radio singer who could swish past all the tests for glamour! And it has the dominant ring of truth, for glamour and obesity do not mix, and for many years the world of song was the most stubborn stronghold of avoidance. The singer with the golden voice was forgiven for resemblance to a piece of rare old Grand Rapids overstuff!

Evidently, that era has gone by. And the fact should be recorded, with special flourishes to make it stand out, for it has a meaning for any young woman bent upon a career. The public has been so sold upon the principles of merchandising that premium brains and talent are expected to come attractively packaged!

Jean Dickenson has a lovely figure. She weighs 115 pounds for her height of five feet, three inches, and has these measurements: bust, 34 inches; waist, 24 1/2 inches; hips, 35 inches. Those are streamlines! But, besides, she has a look of radiant health that is unusual—and she gets it by spending an unusual amount of time in swimming off a Connecticut beach. Jean thinks that anyone who swims a great deal can have a slim figure without vigorous diet, and that is the secret of vitality plus slimmness.

But for off-days, she relies on a few well-chosen calisthenics. One of them is a waist-reducer, which you may like:

Position: Lie on the back on the floor, and have feet extended straight down, arms straight up on floor overhead, to give the trunk a good starting stretch.

Movement: Flex the left leg, the right arm, bringing elbow and knee together. Return to position, and flex right knee and left arm, bringing them together. Continue for 50 counts, alternating.

Another good exercise for the trunk muscles favored by this star is the following:

Position: Lie face down on the floor, legs and arms at full extension.

Movement: Raise right arm from the shoulder, right leg from the hip, as high in the air as possible. Hold for a second, relax, and repeat with left leg. Raising the leg from the hip slims the hip-line and the arm-to-leg stretch shrinks the mid-section.

Jean does watch her diet. She likes fruits, vegetables and milk. And she thinks she has discovered a cure for cold—if taken in time! She goes on a fruit and vegetable regime for a day or so when she feels a cold coming on, and that usually settles it!

Doctor Talks For Smokers' Benefit

By Dr. William Brady.

Familiar rejoinder of the patient whose health has been so seriously affected by tobacco that the doctor prohibits smoking altogether is "How long does it take to get the nicotine out of the system?"

Oh, maybe eight or 10 hours from the last chew or puff. But that makes no difference with the treatment. The question is, not how long it takes to eliminate or excrete tobacco or its components or the components of tobacco smoke, but how much damage has been done the delicate nerve cells or other tissues or organs in the time the tobacco user has been abusing them? The same answer must be made to a similar question in the case of acute or chronic poisoning by alcohol, arsenic, lead, carbon monoxide. Unfortunately the complete elimination or excretion from the body, of any such poison, does not mean that no lasting or even permanent harm or injury has been done by the poison in the short time it has been in the system.

Therefore the smoker who makes a hog of himself or herself—and develops serious nerve, throat, stomach, heart or eye trouble need not hope to see the trouble clear up a week after he or she stops using tobacco. Rather it will be a fortunate outcome if the trouble disappears in the course of four or five months of total abstinence plus proper medical treatment.

Serious manifestations of chronic tobacco poisoning occur almost invariably in persons who make hogs of themselves, by excessive and unreasonable indulgence. For example, smoking before a meal or in the course of a meal; smoking while at work; chain smoking—that is, lighting a fresh one as soon as the last one has been smoked.

Among the characteristic manifestations of tobacco poisoning—and remember these maladies persist for many months after the use of tobacco has been stopped—is gastric or duodenal ulcer complex, a condition difficult or impossible to distinguish from gastric or duodenal ulcer, indeed excessive use of tobacco is regarded by most authorities as one of the causes of gastric or duodenal ulcer.

So closely does tobacco poisoning simulate or mimic peptic ulcer in some cases that, if on opening a fresh pack—a fresh case of ulcer—the surgeon fails to find any ulcer he may console himself with the knowledge that a complete rest in hospital, low diet and the soothing influence of all the nurses and doctors milling about during convalescence will probably relieve the patient of whatever she brought with her.

MY DAY: Worries of World Create a Burden

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—There are two celebrations in New York city this coming week in which I think everybody should be interested. On Monday, the women's division of the Jewish Education Association, known as Livia, is giving its springtime breakfast and will present a play, "A Child Shall Lead Them." This organization has done fine, constructive work in adult education projects for mothers who are in need of help in the care of their young children. The members also provide scholarships for many children who would otherwise find life hard to face. Their work has been reflected in better general welfare of the groups they touch. Their annual springtime breakfast should attract many persons because of the worthiness of the cause.

Then, on the 23d of this month, the New York Zoological Society will hold its garden party for members. I am one of the interested members who think to preserve beauty so near the crowded city streets, and to give an opportunity to young and old to study the various animals in surroundings nearly typical of their usual habitats, is something of real value. I wish I could be present and that the interest of the public in this opportunity were greater.

On Friday afternoon, I received a group of ladies who were attending the convention of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon. Yesterday the high school seniors from Arthurdale, W. Va., lunched with me in the garden. In the afternoon I attended a tea which was given to celebrate the publication of Mr. Bruce Melvin's book, "Youth—Millions Too Many?" This book is written by a man who has worked in the research division of the WPA on many questions affecting youth. It is, I think, a valuable contribution on this subject and should be read by those who have an interest in this problem.

Yesterday morning, for the first time this week, I had a chance to ride and went to the stables to see a new horse which has just been presented to me by the Tennessee Walking Horse Association. He is a beautiful sorrel gelding, five years old, with a most kind and gentle expression. I hope I am going to have a great deal of pleasure getting acquainted with "Charlie" and riding him frequently when Washington duties are less heavy.

Today has been a day of rest, but the anxiety which hangs over everybody seems to bring its quota of fatigue. I notice that many with whom I come in contact these days seem to be exhausted more by the state of apprehension in which we are living than by the actual work we do.

Spirited Sun-Frock

By Lillian Mae.

Hold the summer fashion spotlight in this spirited sun frock, designed for active living. Lillian Mae has given Pattern 4410 an impudently youthful back buttoning—a feature that makes for easy dressing and lets you spread the whole frock flat for quick ironing, too. The entire front bodice and center skirt panel are cut in a single piece. Notice how the high waistline forms graceful curves in front. The side-front and back skirt sections are bias-cut for flaring, action-free lines. Aren't the shoulder straps smart? Now top off the frock with a jaunty bolero—smart in gay contrast with a sash to match—and you've a striking, wear-everywhere ensemble!

Pattern 4410 is available in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13, dress, takes 3 3/4 yards 35-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Order the new Lillian Mae Pattern Book by the next mail . . . and be clothes-ready for summer!

Today's Charm Tip

The real Confucius (551 to 478 B. C.) said: "Between friends frequent reproofs make the friendship distant."

4410

The only way out for them, as far as love and marriage is concerned, is to marry girls who are willing to work and support themselves and when necessary lend husbands a helping hand. Of course this isn't ideal. It means they must scrap their romantic ideals about the husband's being head of the house and breadwinner, while his wife stays at home and makes a pleasant place for him to come to. It means they must live with in-laws or in rented rooms and be denied all the joys of a separate home with a happy family of children in it. They can't do the things their more fortunate friends do: Entertaining, taking trips, collecting antiques and what-nots.

Yet is it not better for them to have companionship of each other while they are young, than to eat out their hearts in waiting for the old folks to die? Working, sacrificing, saving, practicing self-denial bring a young couple closer together than does an easy life in which they have nothing to think about but pleasure.

And so the case of the poor young pair who carry heavy financial burdens and must sacrifice many of the normal joys of married life in consequence is not so bad as if they were permanently separated. While they have youth and health, love, companionship and work they are not really poor, even though they must deny themselves many luxuries to help dependent parents. "The crackling of thorns is not so bad a fire."

Mickey Rooney Makes a Date With Ruth Hussey To See 'Gone With the Wind'

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Jane Withers is getting everything that Shirley Temple left behind in her retreat from the Twentieth Century-Fox lot! The cameraman who worked on most of Shirley's pictures has been awarded to Jane. Also that cute little bungalow in which Shirley used to entertain her famous visitors—the latter included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, J. Edgar Hoover, and scads of visiting royalty and nobility. Miss Temple's immediate future will feature some commercial broadcasting, although I doubt whether her sponsors will pay what they were willing to pay a year ago—$10,000 a broadcast. By the way,

I hope it isn't true that when Jane goes on her next personal appearance tour she plans to give her devastating imitation of Shirley. She was forbidden to do this while Shirley was under contract at Fox. And I think it would be in bad taste to do it now.

Mickey Rooney has a new girlfriend, Ruth Hussey. I'm joking, I think. Here's the low-down. Mickey met Ruth at a recent party, and seemed to be very much smitten with her charms. During the course of conversation, Ruth told him she had not yet seen "Gone With the Wind." Mickey had seen the picture, but vowed he hadn't, and made a date with Ruth to take her to the epic. That was last night. I haven't seen either of them yet today—but I will. I just can't wait to hear the details.

Myrna Loy has been bothered a lot lately by a sudden influx of fans who waylay her at her home and refuse to leave without a souvenir—either her autograph or something more expensive. She questioned some of them as to how they found out where she lived. Most of the address-leaks came from tradespeople who supplied her with goods. Myrna consulted with fellow stars, and with them has organized a central office in Beverly Hills to which all foods, dresses, etc., they order will be sent and picked up later by their chauffeurs. Smart?

I wonder what's happened to Eddie G. Robinson? He used to be among the pleasanter stars in Hollywood. Now he is pompous, and looks depressed on the set. They are saying at Warners—where he works—that for 10 years Robinson played "Little Caesar" and will now play "Dr. Ehrlich" for the next 10 years. Maybe Eddie's home troubles are the reason for his gloom. 'Tis said that all is not well between Eddie and wife Gladys.

Nelson Eddy is the columnist's barometer as to whether he or she is being read. If we dare to print items that are not 100 per cent in praise of Mr. Eddy, his fans rise up in wrath, and put us in our places—via strongly-worded letters. Which brings me to an epistle I received recently from an ardent Eddy admirer, who takes me to task for stating that her idol was 40 years old. "He will not be 39 until the last of June," she writes—and dares me to print a retraction. Here you are, lady.

Robert Taylor actually contrives to steal a picture from Vivien Leigh—in "Waterloo Bridge." Which is not to say that Vivien gives a bad performance. She is fine. But Bob is better. Hard to believe? See the picture, and if you are not as amazed as we in Hollywood at the new and excellent Mr. Taylor, I'll eat my new straw bonnet. Nice to be able to write this about such a swell person like Bob.

The story of an accent. The accent George Sanders used in "I Married a Nazi" was considered too German for the role. So the part was given to George Montgomery, ex-cowboy from Montana. Richard Greene, in the same epic, had to play an American news-hound. But his English accent did not coincide. So Dick has been removed from the cast—under the smokescreen of sickness. Mr. Montgomery has also departed. I understand leading lady Joan Bennett considered him unsuitable. Francis Lederer steps into Montgomery's part. And the picture has been postponed until a substitute is found for Greene. I have an idea. Give Dick's part to Gregory (Accent) Ratoff?

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "Jim likes to have you come over and paint and cut pictures with him. He has to play quietly for awhile."

If a child's activity must be curtailed, find companions for him whose occupations are similar to his.

Mother: "You can't run and play because you've been sick, but you may sit here and watch the other children."

Fresh fruits on crisp cereals are a fine "starter" for the day.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Is it advisable to let a child play make-believe games?

A. Most children are imaginative and they enjoy their toys because of what they can pretend they are. A large box may be a cave and they may play a game in which they are bears or other animals. Games of make-believe are of utmost importance to some children. Flowers may be people, a wooden block may be a boat, a cane may be a horse, or they may even have unseen companions to whom they talk. In their imagination they may turn a room or yard into a forest full of wild animals. Children are usually happy so long as they are allowed to play in this way and adults should not destroy their fairy castles. Parents should respect and enter into the spirit of the play and remember that "Let's pretend" is a part of every life, and the imagination of children should be helped to grow in a healthy direction. Playing with real toys and real children should occupy the greater part of the day and make-believe life should not occupy a child's whole time. Costumes for playing different roles are important to children.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to The Woman's Editor of The Constitution, Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th Street, Washington, D. C. for a reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Sally Forth

SAYS

Femininity To Add Charm To Oglethorpe Festivities

• • • DURING THE coming week end Atlanta will team with illustrious visitors lured to the city, of course, by the vast and interesting program prepared for Oglethorpe University's twenty-first commencement. Highlighting the schedule of events is the closing of the Crypt of Civilization on Saturday, a project unique in its idea and purpose, and thoroughly intriguing in its possibilities and eventualities. In addition, there will be a round of luncheons, teas and dinners at which Atlanta society members will be privileged to meet the important visitors.

Leading the group will be Postmaster General James A. Farley, who will deliver the baccalaureate address on Sunday and also receive the degree of doctor of laws. However, it is the feminine visitors with whom Sally Forth is mainly concerned.

Though all of the distinguished group named to receive degrees are men, many of them will be accompanied by their wives, who will add charm and interest to the social gatherings planned. For instance, Herbert Ravenel Sass, of Charleston, S. C., the distinguished author who will receive the degree of doctor of letters, will be accompanied by Mrs. Sass; and Mrs. Glenn Stewart, of Easton, Md., will arrive with Mr. Stewart to witness the latter's investiture when the doctor of public service degree is conferred upon him.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Stuart will come to Atlanta to see their son, Albert Rhett Stuart, receive the degree of doctor of divinity. The latter is rector of historic St. Michael's church in Charleston, S. C., and is one of the best known Episcopal divines in the south.

Dr. Preston Herbert, of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., and St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Dr. Amos Ettinger, of Bethlehem, Pa., will be among the visitors accompanied by their charming wives. Both Dr. Herbert and Dr. Ettinger have received honorary degrees from Oglethorpe at previous commencements, and they enjoyed southern hospitality to such an extent, with Dr. Thornehill Jacobs as host, that they are returning to their alma mater. When Dr. Ettinger received his degree in 1933, he was a bachelor, but this time he will be accompanied by Mrs. Ettinger, whose arrival society anticipates with great pleasure.

Others to be honored will be Ivan Allen, of Atlanta, and T. K. Peters, Oglethorpe architect, who will be accompanied to the social affairs by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Peters. Pierre Van Paassen, beloved former member of The Constitution editorial staff and famed author of "Days of Our Years"; Albert H. Collins, superintendent of education for Alabama; Fitzgerald Hall, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, and Robert Martin Nelson, of New York, complete the list of prominent guests.

• • • ONE OF the most prominent of Atlanta's early summer visitors is attractive Mrs. Roy Ellis, of Springfield, Mo., who arrived here Sunday and who is expected to stay here for some time. Mrs. Ellis' visit here was precipitated by the forthcoming commencement exercises at Riverside Military Academy in Gainesville, where her 14-year-old son, David Owen, is a freshman.

Listed as one of Springfield's most charming young matrons, the visitor is the wife of Roy Ellis, outstanding educator, who is now president of southwest Missouri State Teachers' College, the largest state college in Missouri. She is a native of Washington, D. C., where her father, Dr. Gilbert O. Nations, was associated with the American University for a number of years. Until his recent retirement, Dr. Nations held the chair of Roman and canon law and jurisprudence in the nation's capital.

The visitor motored here from Gainesville, where she spent a few days of last week with her close friend, Mrs. J. T. Chamberlaine. She plans to continue her gadding about, and will be the guest of the Joel Luncelords next week, squeezing in a visit with Mrs. Isaac Smith, in Savannah, before attending commencement in Gainesville.

An enthusiastic civic worker in Springfield, Mrs. Ellis is president of the Teachers' College Dames Club, is sponsor for the Alpha Beta Zeta sorority on the campus, and is an active worker in P. E. O. She is an unusually gracious hostess and entertains frequently, her most recent party having been a reception at her lovely home prior to her departure.

IT ALL CAME TRUE

The Bank Gives Mrs. Lefferty Notice The House Is To Be Sold For Back Taxes

By Louis Bromfield.

SYNOPSIS. Miss Minnie left her brownstone house to her servants Mrs. Lefferty and Maggie Ryan, who lives with four old boarders. Maggie's torch-singing daughter, Sal, storms back to stay. Mrs. Lefferty's son, Tommy, who has been away for five years, comes back at night with the sinister Grasseil, who is making a hideaway of the house. Sal feels the man is a crook and asks Tommy, who denies it. But it has become an obsession with Sal to ferret out the mystery of Grasseil. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT IX.

Mr. Boldini won the game, principally with the aid of Mrs. Lefferty's mistakes, and while Mrs. Lefferty put away the cards and the score, he excused himself and took Fanto for his nightly airing. "That's a funny-looking dog," Mr. Grasseil observed. "I've never seen one like that except on the stage."

"Fanto's been on the stage," said Miss Flint, eagerly, "and he knows the most wonderful tricks. You'd never believe what he can do, Mr. Grasseil."

"Sure," said Mrs. Lefferty. "And Mr. Boldini is a magician—a wonderful magician."

"They ought to give a performance for Mr. Grasseil. About twice a year Mr. Boldini gives a performance just for us," said Miss Flint.

"I kinda remember that name from somewhere. Did he play in vaudeville in the old days?" "Sure," said Sarah Jane. "He used to travel with a whole company—the Great Boldini and Troupe."

"Do you mean he's the Great Boldini?" "Sure," said Mrs. Lefferty with pride. "You ought to see his clippings. He's done tricks for the Kaiser and the Emperor of Austria."

And then Mr. Boldini returned with Fanto, who made his entrance walking on his hind legs, and Mrs. Lefferty suggested the performance.

"Of course," said Mr. Boldini. "What about the end of the week? We've got some new tricks we've been practicing. We'd like to try them out. How about it, Fanto?" And the poodle went into "n outburst of happy barking."

"And Mr. Salomon could read his poems," said Miss Flint. "Oh, no, not really! I couldn't," said Mr. Salomon. "I haven't written any for a long time. I've been so busy on my memoirs."

"Sure and the old ones are good enough for us," said Mrs. Lefferty. "If you'll read your poems, Mr."

Salmon, Tommy and I will play and sing for you all," said Sarah Jane.

This was not entirely an innocent remark. In the first place, she thought Mr. Salomon's poems were the funniest things she'd ever heard. And in the second place, it would give Tommy and her a good chance to show Monk what they could do.

"That would be wonderful," said Miss Flint; "just like a vaudeville program."

"Will you, Mr. Salomon?" asked Mrs. Lefferty.

"If you insist," said Mr. Salomon. "All right, then," said Mrs. Lefferty. "Friday night."

Then they all went to bed. The evening had been a success, and Mr. Grasseil fitted into the society of poor Miss Minnie's drawing room far more gracefully than Mrs. Lefferty had thought possible. She helped old Mr. Van Diver upstairs to his room, and then went off to bed thinking about Sarah Jane and Tommy and how, after all, things seemed to be working out, all save the money.

After that Mr. Grasseil came down every evening to dinner and every evening there was a rummy game and every evening he won more often than anyone else. After the second night they let him do all the dealing because he seemed to know how to do it better than any of them, and so he became a kind of croquer in the gambling hell of poor Miss Minnie's drawing room. Then on Thursday, the day before Mr. Boldini's performance, two things happened.

In the morning Sarah Jane came upon Mrs. Lefferty sitting on a chair in Mr. Boldini's room with a letter in her hand, weeping. When Sarah Jane questioned her, Mrs. Lefferty simply handed her the letter. It was brief. It said that the interest was overdue, and that something would have to be done about it. The bank, said the letter, had been lenient and had put up with delays in the past but under present conditions it could no longer continue such a policy.

"So that's it," said Sarah Jane. She had been aware all along that there was something wrong but she hadn't imagined it was as bad as this.

"It isn't only that," sobbed Mrs. Lefferty. "There's the insurance and the taxes."

Sarah Jane sat down opposite her and took a pencil and paper from Mr. Boldini's desk. "Now, tell me the whole story."

So Mrs. Lefferty told her all about everything; about their struggle to make ends meet and about how little Mr. Van Diver paid and how much Miss Flint and Mr. Boldini owed them and how for a long time until Mr. Grasseil turned up, there hadn't been any transients at all.

"You'd better sell everything and clear out. How much would you have left?"

Mrs. Lefferty didn't know. She only knew the assessed value of the house. So Sarah Jane took that and did some figuring. After a long struggle she discovered that when everything was washed up they'd have practically nothing at all.

"That wouldn't do any good," she said.

"Besides, I couldn't do that—no matter what happens," said Mrs. Lefferty.

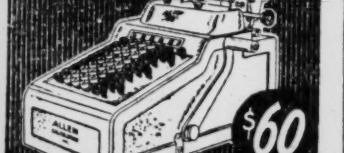

"Why not?" "We couldn't sell poor Miss Minnie's things—not after she left them for us to keep."

"Poor Miss Minnie won't know." "Don't talk like that," said Mrs. Lefferty sharply. "Poor Miss Minnie knows everything we do, it's blasphemous." She blew her nose and added, "Anyway, we couldn't. What would become of Mr. Van Diver and Miss Flint and Mr. Boldini? Somebody's got to keep a home for them."

"How much do you have to have right now?" asked Sarah Jane. "I don't know exactly," said Mrs. Lefferty.

COURT—A fortune of almost a quarter of a million dollars provides the facts for a dramatization of the "Court of Missing Heirs" in its search for the rightful owner of unclaimed estates over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The fortune was left by a 75-year-old Baltimore widower who died three months ago. It amounted to $240,000.

The "Court" also seeks a 56-year-old Texan who is heir to an $18,000 fortune left him a year ago by his father when he died in Terrell, Tex. The heir, who was a salesman for a Cosicana, Tex., firm, disappeared July 9, 1927, while traveling between Dallas and Terrell.

CAVALCADE—Helen Hayes, famous first lady of the theater, will join the Cavalcade of America for a guest performance in an original radio drama about Chicago's great woman socialist, Jane Adams. Miss Hayes will play the title role in the broadcast which will recreate highlights from the life of the pioneer feminist social worker. At the request of executives of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the broadcast will be staged visually in the auditorium in Milwaukee, Wis., for an audience of more than five thousand women who will be attending the annual national council meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Milwaukee that week. The broadcast will be heard over WAGA at 8 o'clock tonight.

Cavalcade's presentation of the story of Jane Adams is particularly timely since the date of the broadcast will mark the fifth anniversary of Jane Adams' death and the 50th anniversary of the founding of her famous Hull House in Chicago.

MILLER MELODIES—Another quarter-hour program of popular tunes played in the Miller manner will be presented by Glenn Miller and his orchestra over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight. The popular bandleader, who recently voted the outstanding orchestra leader in the United States by the editors of college newspapers, is playing an engagement in Boston, Massachusetts.

In addition to orchestral selections, vocals will be provided by Marion Hutton and Ray Eberle.

INFORMATION—It will be brother against brother, Rhodes scholar against Rhodes scholar, Morley against Morley, when Felix Morley, editor of the Washington Post and president elect of Harvard College, comes to grips with his brilliant brother, Christopher, as guest experts on "Information Please" during its broadcast to be heard over WAGA at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The program also will include John Kieran, Franklin P. Adams and Clifton Fadiman as interlocutors.

Your Own Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Previous to 2:25 p. m. progress in your affairs will be delayed, and this is a time to put finishing touches to old things. After 2:25 p. m. care should be used in handling machinery and tools.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Today is good for research, unusual ideas, and dealing with people in out-of-the-ordinary affairs.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Upset conditions, and sudden changes resulting in loss will mark new beginnings, so try to postpone them. However, you can finish up work that calls for tact and diplomacy.

June 21st and July 22d (CANCER)—Matters of business, official standing, and your relations with employers can be benefited. Develop in your chosen affairs.

July 23d and Aug. 22d (LEO)—The entire day favors ordinary and routine affairs. This is especially true in connection with communications, correspondence, and around metals and vehicles.

Aug. 23d and Sept. 22d (VIRGO)—You will accomplish more by working alone, as others are not apt to see your way of thinking or doing things.

Sept. 23d and Oct. 22d (LIBRA)—Previous to 9:09 a. m. is the time to do those things you desire to materialize quickly. After 9:09 a. m. favors matters of things. You can obtain better support for your activities after 1:54 p. m. if you will avoid over-activity.

Jan. 20th and Feb. 18th (AQUARIUS)—Complications and frustrations enter affairs previous to 12:02 noon. Between 12:02 noon and 1:48 p. m. do not make changes. After 1:48 p. m. favors making pleasant contacts, both in business and social affairs.

Feb. 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—Plan to bring your diplomacy to the front today, as this is not an auspicious day for new, important and risky ventures.

Slayer of Wife Who Shot Self Held for Police

C. R. Morris Jr. Suffering From Bullet Wound in Abdomen.

C. Roy Morris Jr., young bank teller, remained in a critical condition at Georgia Baptist hospital last night as police continued their investigation of the Sunday night shooting when Morris fatally wounded his 28-year-old wife and critically wounded himself.

Morris, suffering from a bullet wound in the lower abdomen, was marked "hold for police" on the hospital records. No case will be booked against him pending his recovery, detectives said.

Funeral services for his pretty young wife, who operated the Morris office service in the C. & S. building, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill. The Rev. D. M. Hobart and the Rev. W. M. Elliott Jr. will officiate, and burial will be in Scottsboro, Ala.

No inquest is to be held, as there were eyewitnesses, police reported.

Arkwright's Auto Stolen, Recovered

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, yesterday had an automobile with three flat tires but, at least, he had an automobile—thanks to DeKalb County Policemen C. M. Cloud and Charles Visccher.

Stolen from his garage early yesterday morning, Arkwright's automobile was recovered 30 minutes after the theft when the two officers sighted it on Highway 42 near Henrico road.

The driver of the car was listed as DeKalb county jail as Jesse Robinson, 19, of 640 Gaskill street, who surrendered to the police only after they shot holes in three tires on Arkwright's car as Robinson sped toward the Clayton county line.

Homes Are Destroyed in Atlanta, Yes---But Only To Bring Health, Beauty, Happiness

BLITZBLASTED? Belying appearances, no bombs have fallen. Humanitarian Atlanta destroys only to rebuild more strongly, more healthfully, more beautifully than before. This picture shows how present structures are being razed here to make way for the Henry Grady Homes, which are a low-cost housing project.

SANITY STILL SUPREME Although civilization and the sanity which is its strongest ally seem completely out of kilter across the seas, Atlanta keeps a level head, never wantonly destructive. Here, at Techwood, you see how the Henry Grady housing project at left will look upon its completion.

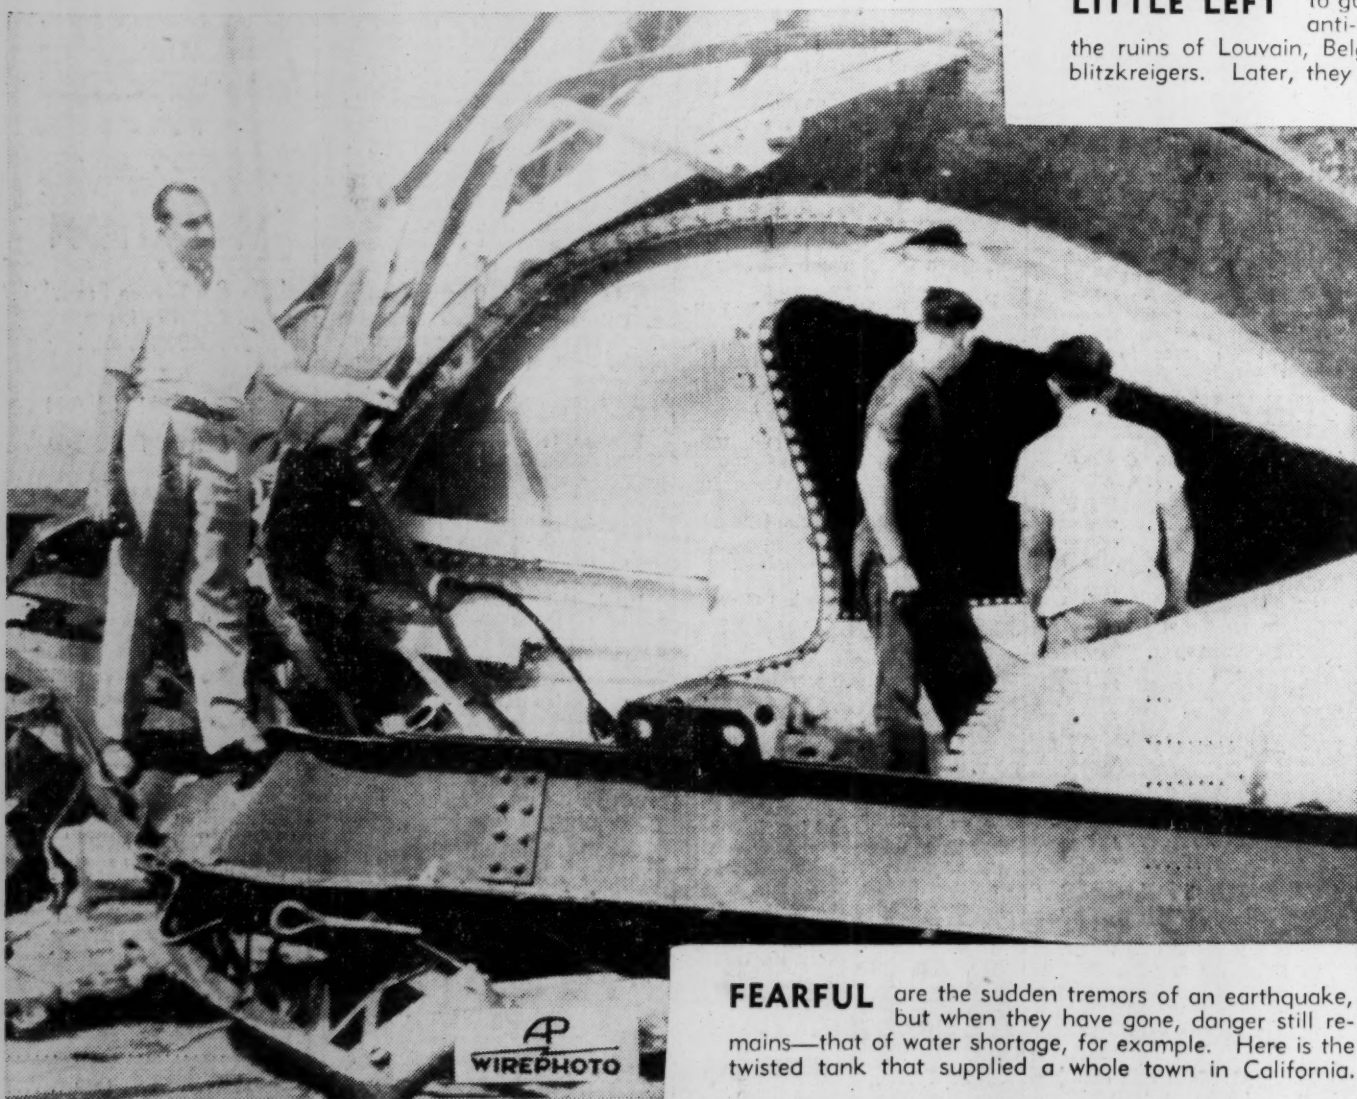

PATHOS ON PARADE Shattered is the once beautiful city of Louvain, Belgium; shattered the lives, the spirits, the happiness of her people—all by the steel-clad heel of that blind, unreasoning monster, War. Note the stunned refugee in the lead, head bowed upon her baby. She is but one of many thousands.

LITTLE LEFT to guard, it seems, but these British anti-tank troopers wait grimly amid the ruins of Louvain, Belgium, ready to argue with the blitzkreigers. Later, they had to retreat before the foe.

A LIFETIME'S LABOR can be wrecked in a splintered second by the blast of a single bomb. Aye, and more—the life itself can be senselessly snuffed. But that is the way of war. Here you see great houses in Sedan, France, that were wrecked by the artillery fire of Mars when the Nazis invaded France.

FEARFUL are the sudden tremors of an earthquake, but when they have gone, danger still remains—that of water shortage, for example. Here is the twisted tank that supplied a whole town in California.

UNEXPECTED was the climax of their shopping excursion. They came to this grocery seeking food—and found death. California's earthquake toppled the walls of this store, and four were killed.
